Money For Unincorporated Area Services Attacked

'Double Taxation' Not Fair, Council Decides

By JEFF GREER

Spurred by one city councilman's declaration that "we resent double taxation," the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen last night unanimously declared that city property owners should not be taxed for fire protection, police and other services to unincorporated areas. (Another mayors and councilmen story, page 11.)

The action brought to a head more than seven years' debate by county supervisors and councilmen over tax equity. The cities claim that such services cost more than the unincorporated areas pay under the countywide property tax rate.

Jean S. Barnard, Mill Valley mayor who heads the council's tax equity committee, explained that the resolution means that unincorporated areas may have to form special tax districts to finance the services. Otherwise, she said, services should be cut back to the level actually paid for by unincorporated area property taxes.

The council first endorsed a policy endorsed in 1969 by the board of supervisors — that county department heads should identify how much of their budgets are spent on unincorporated areas but financed with city property taxes. The council's long-delayed action makes the budget breakdown mandatory, Mrs. Barnard said. Some departments have voluntarily complied already.

She presented estimates that city residents' taxes for 1973-74 are financing unincorporated area planning services by amounts varying from $4,370 paid by Ross to $55,767 paid by San Rafael. Sheriff's patrols outside city limits will cost city taxpayers amounts ranging from $17,153 for Ross to $218,852 for San Rafael this year, she reported.

Fairfax Town Councilman Robert R. Souza unsuccessfully tried to get the policy proposals referred back to the individual city councils for discussion, but was shouted down.

"San Rafael isn't going to wait for the rest of you people," declared Mayor C. Paul Bettini. "We've told the county effective Nov. 1 we'll no longer provide first call fire service to the unincorporated areas." He urged all the cities to take "an aggressive approach" against letting any more property tax revenue be siphoned off to benefit unincorporated areas.

"Money is our town is precious. We resent double taxation," declared Ross Town Councilman Roy Farrington Jones.

Tiburon Mayor Branwell D. Fanning said that neighboring unincorporated areas "laughed at us" when the city sought to annex them because they were

Delay On Sausalito Ferry Terminal

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The new Sausalito ferry terminal will not be completed until at least six months after the Golden Gate Bridge District's first new ferryboat goes into service, it was learned today.

A permanent downtown terminal had been scheduled o open in time to handle the first of the three new ferryboats next July 1. Various delays, nwa? have postponed the opening probably until January 1975.

Roland B. Mays, of the Sausalito firmof Environmental Planning and Design Associates, told the bridge district staff today that construction would take approximately eight months. He estimated last week that his firm's preparation of specifications for bids also would take eight months.

District directors are scheduled to approve a $193,000 contract with the firm at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Ferry transit manager Stanley M. Kowleski told the Independent-Journal that the Army Corps of Engineers dock could be used temporarily to handle Sausalito passengers. He noted the new ferry cannot be accommodated at the existing downtown pier because its loading gate is higher than on the existing ferryboat.

Kowleski said he still hopes dredging can be completed in time to open at least a temporary terminal at Larkspur by July 1, 1974.

The contract with the Sausalito firm was endorsed last week by the district's building and operating committee.

The cost of the contract raised objection today from the finance-auditing committee. The committee nevertheless recommended the contract unanimously, but insisted that construction costs be held to the $1,255,000 budgeted.

Board President Stephan C. Leonoudakis cautioned the board should pay more if the cost goes up, and not try to cut back on the terminal. "In keeping with the image of the district," he said, "where we go, we go first class."

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said one of the two floats could be eliminated from the terminal but only by sacrificing some safety.

Committee Chairman Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco warned "We're buying a Rolls Royce and we won't have enough money to put gasoline into it."

Security Taut As Jurors Get Testimony On Agnew

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Under extreme security, federal prosecutors today began giving a grand jury evidence of alleged bribery, extortion, tax fraud and conspiracy against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew despite his claim of immunity from indictment.

The first known witness to appear before the panel was William J. Muth, a former member of the Baltimore City Council, who told reporters later: "This whole investigation is a lot of bull——."

Muth now is vice president for public relations of a civil engineering firm, Hurst Rosche, and served one term on the Baltimore City Council — from 1947 to 1951. He handled public relations work for I. H. "Bud" Hammerman, a longtime Agnew friend, during a brief "Spiro of '76" campaign last November.

As the 22-member grand jury convened in tight secrecy at 10 a.m. EDT in the federal courthouse here, Agnew was at the White House sitting in on a meeting between President Nixon, Republican congressional leaders and Cabinet members.

One congressman who attended the White House session said Agnew's legal situation was not discussed, and that the vice president appeared calm and "didn't say a word."

News reporters jammed the corridor outside the fifth-floor grand jury room of the federal courthouse here, but a small army of U.S. marshals kept them far from areas used by the jurors or witnesses.

So tight was the security that at one point a CBS News television crew was taken into custody after going to the rooftop of a nearby building to take pictures of the courthouse. None of the crew was formally charged.

Agnew was described by supporters and aides as confident of vindication and expressing public determination to remain in office while resignation rumors continued to circulate.

The federal prosecutors proceeded with the Agnew presentation with the approval of Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson, who assumed the responsibility for deciding how far the Agnew investigation could go as part of a wide ranging inquiry into political corruption in Maryland.

Agnew sought unsuccessfully to get Congress to take over the prime investigatory role, arguing that he could not be indicted in the courts without first being impeached. Speaker Carl Albert rejected Agnew's request yesterday, some 18 hours after it was made.

The vice president's lawyers have said they will challenge the grand jury's deliberations, but they made no move to do so before George Beall, U. S. attorney for Maryland and in charge of the overall corruption inquiry, went before the grand jury this morning.

One of Agnew's chief lawyers, Judah Best, said it probably would be at least Monday before the challenge is filed. Best said he was in "no hurry" to file the suit, saying the timing was not partiicularly relevant.

For almost 10 months, the grand jury has been investigating kickbacks from architectural and engineering contractors doing business with the state.

It was reported that Agnew's name unexpectedly cropped up early this year during investigations covering the period when he was top executive officer of Baltimore County and later Maryland governor.

Beall formally notified Agnew early last month that he was under investigation for allegations of extortion, bribery, tax fraud and conspiracy.

Agnew promptly labeled the charges against him as "damned lies."

Some former associates and friends of Agnew have been cited in news leaks as sources of some of the charges.

The chief judge of the U.S. District Court in Baltimore, Edward S. Northrop, banned publication of names of members of the grand jury. Marshals closed off the entire fifth floor of the federal building where the panel meets.

Other uniformed guards, equipped with walkie-talkies, also blocked reporters from garage areas usually used as an entrance to the building by witnesses summoned before the grand jury.

Peasants Foiled In Allende Body Theft

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Chilean navy guards fought a pitched battle with peasants in the Vina del Mar area last week who were seeking to recover the body of slain Marxist President Salvador Allende from its secret burial place, it was disclosed today.

There was prolonged shooting, navy sources said, but no casualties or arrests. The newsmen and photographers who dug out the story, including UPI correspondent Robert E. Sullivan, were detained briefly in the southern coastal city, but subsequently released without charges.

U. S. Embassy officials, meanwhile, said eight Americans released from detention by the new junta government and held in the National Stadium are in good health, but weak and hungry.

An embassy spokesman said the eight "probably want to get out of the country as fast as possible now." He described their treatment as "generally good, but they came out weak and hungry."

Military authorities have used the 75,000-seat stadium to house the approximately 5,000 prisoners rounded up in the two weeks following the coup that overthrew Allende.

A team of foreign newsmen, including UPI correspondent Sullivan, were detained for four hours yesterday in Vina del Mar by police and navy units after they went to the cemetery where Allende's body is buried on a reporting and photographic assignment.

Sullivan said sailors guarding the grave told him a pitched battle was fought at the site last week between troops and leftist slumdwellers trying to seize the deposed president's body.

Allende was reported by the junta to have committed suicide while besieged in his presidential palace Sept. 11 by troops, tanks and jet airplanes.

His body was flown to Vina del Mar the day following his death and now lies buried, Sullivan reported, in a small grave marked with another man's name.

Trade Bars On Russia Deplored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told House Republican leaders today that trade sanctions aimed at forcing the Soviet Union to allow increased emigration would be "disastrous and catastrophic," according to one congressman who attended the meeting.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Conference, told reporters Nixon said he was upset at the prospect of trade legislation "in a form that would make the Soviets think we were trying to make them change their policies for trade concessions."

The reference was to a vote by the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday to deny "most favored nation" status — the best U.S. trade terms —to most Communist countries until the President certified that each allowed free emigration of its citizens. A similar proposal has strong backing in the Senate.

Anderson quoted Nixon as saying it would be "disastrous and catastrophic" to single out the Soviet Union for sanctions.

In New York, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Wednesday that U.S.-Soviet good will would be endangered by any U.S. move to pressure the Russians on the emigration issue.

The amendment approved by the House Ways and Means Committee was sponsored by Reps. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman, and Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio. Less than a week ago its backers said it might be killed in committee. But when the final voice vote came yesterday, sources in the meeting said there were no audible no's.

"They were just overcome," said one staff worker. He said tremendous pressure was put on committee members by their colleagues, most of whom have announced support of the bill, and by numerous outside groups including Jewish groups and the AFL-CIO.

The administration lobbied strongly against the bill. Nixon wants a free hand to negotiate "most favored nation" status, which pledges that a country will get the same trading concessions that the United States gives its "most favored" trading partner.

The amendment requires the President to make an annual report on a country's emigration policies and allows either house of Congress to veto his decision.

Tight Controls Put On So-Called 'Love Drug'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government imposed strict new controls today on the prescription drug methaqualone on grounds it has become a "heavily abused fad drug among young people."

The controls announced by John R. Bartels Jr., acting administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, will make methaqualone — known on the street as "sopers" or "quaalude" — subject to the same restrictions as those on cocaine, methadone and other narcotics.

"Many young people are not aware how dangerous this drug is," Bartels said. "In the juice bars in New York and at parties in other cities we know that young people were abusing methaqualone in near epidemic porportions."

A recent survey by his agency over an 18-month period revealed that the drug resulted in at least 145 suicides and 906 overdose cases as well as numerous suicide attempts and other damaging aftereffects, Bartels said.

Methaqualone, prescribed for daytime sedation and nighttime sleep, had been covered previously only by Food and Drug Administration rules on prescription drugs, an agency spokesman said.

But among young people who have used it for nonmedical purposes, the so-called "downer" has been dubbed "a love drug" or "heroine for lovers."

Trident Missile Sub Program Gets Green Light From Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate voted today in favor of proceeding promptly with work on the new Trident missile submarine.

By a 49-47 vote, the Senate rejected a move to delay the project by two years until about 1980. Trident supporters won their fight with arguments centering on Soviet missile progress.

California Sens. Alan Cranston and John Tunney voted in favor of the delay.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., was principal sponsor of the proposal to delay the Trident by deleting $885 million from a $1.5 billion administration request for the submarine this fiscal year, which began July 1.

Funds for production of the Trident were sought in the $21.9 billion defense procurement authorization bill that has been before the Senate since last week.

Both foes and proponents agreed the submarine eventually would be built.

McIntyre argued that the Navy's request to expedite the Trident meant the ship would be in production before necessary research had been completed, and that this could result in expensive changes later in the completed subs.

Some senators, led by Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., want to launch the first sub in 1978 instead of 1980, arguing that the Soviet threat necessitated the rush. They cited recent Soviet tests of a missile with a 4,000-mile range like that planned for the Trident.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R. I., made public a letter from Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, often referred to as the father of the nuclear submarine, saying delay might increase the Trident cost from $13 billion to $14 billion because of inflation and production disruptions.

Later today, the Senate planned to vote a third time on the issue of reducing American troops overseas.

The Senate voted tentatively 49-46 Wednesday morning in favor of a 40 per cent reduction of land-based forces, but reversed this six hours later by a 54-44 vote when four senators switched their votes.

Russia Resumes Manned Space Flights With Shot

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union launched a spacecraft with two men aboard into earth orbit today, the first time it has sent men into space in more than two years, the Tass news agency said.

Tass said the spaceship, Soyuz 12, was piloted by Lieut. Col. Vasily Lazarev and flight engineer Oleg Makarov.

"The cosmonauts feel well and the crafts on-board systems are functioning normally," Tass said.

The agency said the Soyuz was scheduled to remain in orbit two days. "The experimental flight is one of the stages in the work of further improving manned spacecraft," it said.

Tass said the spacecraft was launched at 3:18 p.m. today. The announcement came nearly two hours later.

Western space experts said it appeared that the purpose of the mission was to test a revamped Soyuz spacecraft in preparation for the scheduled 1975 U.S.-Soviet combined space mission.

However, neither of the two cosmonauts who went up today was among the eight Russians named last May as candidates for the joint flight.

The launch came just two days after the American Skylab astronauts completed a record 59-day mission in space.

The Soviet Union had not sent a man into space since Soyuz 11 came down June 30, 1971—nearly 27 months ago—with its three cosmonauts dead. Investigation later showed a faulty hatch seal depressurized the reentry capsule.

Last spring the Russians suffered a series of space failures which raised doubts in the minds of some American experts about their ability to carry out the joint project in 1975.

Banker To Tackle Yosemite 'Spire'

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Banker Stan Zundell, who has made a record eight amateur ascents of Switzerland's Matterhorn, turned 61 yesterday, and said he will next climb the 3,000-foot granite "Lost Arrow Spire" in Yosemite National Park.

"In the five years I've been climbing, this is the big one for me. I'm even liable to run out of gas halfway up because at 61, I'm not so tough and strong.

"I don't plan to take out any extra life insurance. I simply don't plan to get myself killed on this climb," Zundell said.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Only hours after Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan accused Syria of building a massive war arsenal on its frontier with Israel, a Beirut magazine said today Syria is on alert and preparing for an imminent Israeli attack.

The magazine As Sayyad made the remark in an introduction to an interview its correspondent conducted in Damascus with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam.

Strike Ends

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Thousands of workers today ended a paralyzing one-day nationwide strike called to protest the assassination of Jose Rucci, Argentina's top labor leader.

During yesterday's walkout, workers marched in a five-mile-long funeral procession through the streets of Buenos Aires to one of the city's cemeteries.

Some of the marchers carried Argentine flags draped in black mourning stripes and others chanted a pledge to avenge Rucci's death.

Americans Freed

SANTIAGO (UPI) — The ruling military junta freed eight Americans yesterday after two weeks of captivity, but thousands of persons suspected of backing the ousted Marxist government were still being detailed in a giant soccer stadium.

The four-man junta, which overthrew the late President Salvador Allende Sept. 11, also said firing squads executed three men accused of killing a policeman, raising to a half-dozen the number of officially reported executions.

The embassy identified the freed Americans as Revs. Francis Flynn and Joseph Dougherty, two Maryknoll priests; Rev. Charles Welsh, a Holy Cross priest; Prof. James Gordon Ritter, Carol Nezzo, Charles Fisk, David Hathaway and Juan Jose Velasco, a naturalized citizen born in the Dominican Republic.

Talks Stalled

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto contract negotiations between the United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. were locked in a holding pattern yesterday while bargainers attempted to clear up unresolved local issues with Chrysler Corp.

Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, said the conclusion of bargaining at Ford may be delayed because "it could take a couple more weeks to clear up the Chrysler situation."

Chrysler resumed production Monday after a nine-day strike following ratification of the national contract but only 30 of 69 bargaining units reported settlement on local issues.

Trains Blown Up

SAIGON (UPI) — Two trains were blown up by land mines yesterday and military sources said a heavy Communist mortar barrage wounded eight persons at a Roman Catholic refugee camp.

The South Vietnamese foreign ministry also indicated that the government would launch an offensive soon to recapture a ranger base in the Central Highlands that was lost to the Communists last Saturday.

Drought Forecast

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, a research scientist who believes sunspots directly affect the weather on Earth, says a severe drought rivaling the Dust Bowl days of the depression may hit the Great Plains next year or by 1975.

Roberts, president of the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research, said yesterday an upcoming period of very little sunspot activity may signal an oncoming drought.

Roberts said the sunspots follow a 20 to 22-year cycle and the droughts on the Great Plains fit that same pattern.

Report Of Training

BELFAST (UPI) — A Protestant political leader said today Canadian troops who arrived on the Vietnam truce team were being trained for peace-keeping duties in Northern Ireland.

In Ulster violence, two youths robbed an elderly woman Wednesday near the border town of Newry and blew up her general store and upstairs home with two bombs.

An army spokesman said militants also extensively damaged a drapery store in the town of Lisnaska with bomb blasts.

There were no injuries in either attack.

Back Sihanouk

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — At least 17 nations have taken the first step to get U.N. recognition for Prince Norodom Sihanouk's exile government as the legal regime of Cambodia, informed diplomatic sources said yesterday.

Sihanouk asked Secretary General Kurt Waldheim for recognition in a note sent from the nonaligned summit conference in Algiers Sept. 10, but the letter was never released by U.N. officials.

The diplomatic sources said 17 nations, including China and Albania, have since presented a formal request that the note be published as an official document by the General Assembly.

Population Showing A Decline In Major Metropolitan Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) —It may be getting a bit less difficult to keep them down on the farm after they've seen Paree, according to the latest figures from the U.S. Census Bureau.

The bureau reported yesterday that the nation's two biggest metropolitan areas, New York and Los Angeles, actually lost population between 1970 and 1972, along with eight other major urban centers.

The bureau said overall population growth in major metropolitan areas slowed noticeably in the three-year span although it was still inching ahead at the end of last year.

New York's population dropped 0.3 per cent to 9.4 million in the city and suburbs, the census said. Most of the decrease came in the boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

The Los Angeles area lost only 50,000 people, giving it a total of just under 7 million, but that was enough to knock it back into third place behind metropolitan Chicago, which grew by 107,000 residents to a total of 7,085,000.

The biggest percentage population loss came in Norfolk, Va., which lost almost 8 per cent. Other losers among major metropolitan areas included St. Louis at 5.8 per cent, San Francisco and Wichita Kans., 3.5 per cent each, Washington, D.C. down 1.1 Baltimore 1 per cent, Pittsburgh and Cleveland, down less than 1 per cent each.

In general, the census showed, metropolitan areas over 2 million grew only 0.8 per cent while smaller urban concentrations with populations of 50,000 and more grew 2.2 per cent on the average during the period.

HOLLYWOOD BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Shore patrolmen are rounding up hundreds of baby sea turtles and pointing them in the right direction.

Soviets Announce Expo '74 Plans

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Officials of the Soviet Union have announced three theaters featuring environmental subjects would be built for the Expo '74 World Environmental Exposition here next year.

The USSR pavilion will include an aluminum "sculpture map" of the Soviet Union and cultural displays of artworks and sculptures from ancient times, spokesmen said Tuesday.

Hollister Quake Forecast Blown

MENLO PARK (UPI) —Government scientists who earlier this year made the first official prediction of an earthquake admitted today "we blew it."

The prediction, made March 22, was that a moderate quake of about 4.5 on the open-ended Richter scale would occur on a fault zone 20 miles south of Hollister, "within the next several months."

The prediction seemed fairly safe, the scientists said at the time, because the area 100 miles south of San Francisco averages three or four such quakes a year.

It has now been more than six months since the prediction was officially announced by the National Geological Survey in Washington.

To the embarrassment of the government scientists, the Hollister area, sometimes called the "earthquake capital of the world," has been remarkably quiet. There have been no significant earthquakes there.

"We blew it," said Robert Wesson, of the National Center for Earthquake Research.

He said the center put out extra instruments in the area where the quake was to occur and "we monitored it very carefully.

"Unfortunately, the quake hasn't happened. We don't quite know why," said Wesson.

He said the prediction was based on studies which showed that particular place on the San Andreas fault had not moved, while other sections of the fault had shifted during the previous year.

THREE DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Robert C. Omstead, 47, son of Mrs. Robert Flynn of Fairfax, a Weaverville teacher and a former principal in the Trinity High School District, was one of three persons killed yesterday when this light plane crashed just after takeoff from the Weaverville Airport.

The two others killed in the crash were Steve Searcy, 56, superintendent of the district, and James Kennedy, 40, another teacher in the district. They were en route to Sacramento for a conference.

Skylab Crewmen In Amazing Shape

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (UPI) — The record-breaking Skylab 2 astronauts were to fly home to Houston tonight in excellent health after a two-month space voyage that showed men can live safely in weightlessness for months at a time.

Dr. Paul Buchanan said the readjustment of Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma to gravity after spending 59 days without it was "just short of amazing."

The spacemen faced still more medical tests and doctors asked them to undergo another half-day examination today before leaving the recovery carrier New Orleans this afternoon for the flight to Texas.

Buchanan said the three spacemen were steadier and hungrier than they were after Tuesday's splashdown and he said they were walking about the ship yesterday "as well as I do."

In Houston, Dr. Royce Hawkins, the pilots' chief physician, said the fact that the three astronauts were able to complete almost all the rigorous exercise testing planned "says an awful lot for their condition."

He said their hearts, not accustomed to pumping hard after having an easy time with no gravity to pump against, were in good shape.

"The crew is in excellent shape and continues to improve over their condition upon recovery," Hawkins said early today.

Buchanan said the men had each lost 4 to 5 per cent of their body weight, but this was expected. The only problem occurred when Bean aggravated an old back sprain by sleeping on a soft mattress aboard the New Orleans Tuesday night.

The astronauts' wives planned to greet them.

Crime Rate Drops First Half Of '73

WASHINGTON (AP) — Violent crimes increased and property crimes decreased during the first half of this year, the FBI has reported.

The violent crime rate climbed 4 per cent over the same period last year, said the agency's six-month report of uniform crime statistics released yesterday.

The FBI said this rise included a 9 per cent increase in the murder rate and increases of smaller percentages for rape, robbery and aggravated assault. Murder was up by 17 per cent in rural areas and 8 per cent in metropolitan areas, with the exception of cities of more than a million people, where murder was up 12 per cent.

Crimes against property, including auto theft, burglary and larceny, were down 2 per cent nationwide, said the FBI.

Since there are substantially more property crimes committed than violent crimes, the 2 per cent decrease in property crimes offset the 4 per cent increase in violent crimes, yielding a total, nationwide decrease in the crime rate of 1 per cent, the agency said.

Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson said that despite the increase in violent crime, "I am encouraged to see that the statistics continue to show a leveling-off of the great increase in crime that occurred during the 1960s."

Richardson has criticized the FBI crime reporting system as an inaccurate and incomplete measurement. The statistics are based on figures submitted by more than 5,000 state and local police agencies and are only as accurate, critics contend, as the reporting methods of the police agencies involved.

Gunman Tries To Kill Radio Talk Show Host

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A young man fired shots at a KGO radio talk show host in a bulletproof streetside studio today, shot another man, then turned the gun on himself, a KGO spokesman reported.

Dave Chase of the KGO news department said a young Oriental attempted to shoot through the bulletproof glass at show host Jim Dunbar, but found the window impenetrable.

The man then tried to enter the station lobby and shot another KGO employee, wounding him at least twice with the .22-caliber Colt automatic pistol, Chase said.

The gunman sprinted down Hyde Street to McAllister, reloaded and shot himself, he said.

San Francisco General Hospital reported both men in critical condition and undergoing surgery. They were identified as Lawrence Kwong, 25, of San Francisco, who had wounds in the leg and head, and KGO salesman Ben Munson, 47, with three wounds in the back.

Dunbar said the man had watched from outside the studio for some time. "We were all made kind of uneasy by the presence of the fellow. There was something strange about him.

"I waved at him at one point. I put my nose up against the window and waved at him and smiled. He smiled back."

Later, Dunbar said, "The first indication he was shooting was I heard what sounded like something rapping the window. I looked up and saw the gun."

Newswriter Paula Mehr, who was in the studio at the time of the shooting, said, "Somebody came running up and said Ben Munson was shot.' Another salesman knocked the gun aside. This guy ran onto McAllister and shot himself in the head."

She said that had the plate glass in front of Dunbar not been bulletproof, it would have killed him.

"He was only a foot away. He couldn't have missed," she said.

Dunbar had just finished interviewing Rep. Jerome Waldie when the attempted shooting happened, the studio said. Waldie was not in the booth during the shooting.

Fireman Morris Murray, on duty in the San Francisco Fire Department Central Station across from the radio station, said he saw a man standing outside Dunbar's bulletproof booth. He said he was standing there for "quite some time, then he pulled a gun and fired once at the window. When he saw it was bulletproof, he ran inside the building. A man rushed out into the lobby and he shot him four or five times. I saw them wrestling on the floor."

The violence drew a crowd of some 200 persons after the shooting. Blood stained the front door of the building in the downtown area.

Four Are Indicted By Grand Jury

The Marin County Grand Jury yesterday handed down indictments charging two San Quentin inmates with possessing knives, a San Jose man with the murder of his wife and a San Rafael youth with rape, robbery and burglary.

The four will be arraigned Monday before Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best.

Indicted were:

Ronald Allen Marco, 24, in whose shoe a prison-made knife was found Aug. 16 in San Quentin's east block. He was serving a term of six months to life for assault with a deadly weapon and attempted robbery.

Michael Ray Lucas, 27, a fourth-term convict who allegedly had a knife in a rolled-up magazine in his back pocket Aug. 27. He was serving a term for forgery, possession of a weapon by a prisoner and attempted escape.

Patrick Joseph Pitts, 52, of San Jose, accused of murdering his wife, Beverly, 48, at a Corte Madera restaurant Friday. Mrs. Pitts was an organist there.

Richard Alan Kisling, 18, of San Rafael, charged with three counts of burglary, two of forcible rape and one of armed robbery. Kisling is said to have been one of two men who hit three homes in a rape-and-burglary spree between Sept. 5 and 11.

$7.5 Million Water Bond Issue Backed

The executive committee of the City-County Planning Council of Marin yesterday endorsed passage of the Marin Municipal Water District's $7.5 million water November bond measure.

County planning director Werner Von Gundell said the committee will recommend endorsement of the bond to the full planning council Oct. 10.

The committee said yesterday the additional water to be provided by the bond measure is needed to make the countywide general plan work. The plan proposes to limit growth over the next 20 years.

Attending the executive committee meeting were council chairman Albert Aramburu, Margaret B. Azevedo, Philip K. Buskirk and Hugh Dougherty.

The full council also will resume its discussion of a countywide review agency and its membership at its Oct. 10 meeting.

Strawberry Zoning Map Draws Fire

The Strawberry Area Community Council decided last night that it disagreed with almost the entire zoning map which a county-hired planner has prepared to go with a new master plan for Strawberry.

Sandra Dorsaneo, council secretary, said the council decided it must hold a special meeting to present its objections to planner Steven Chaum, under contract with the county to work on the plan.

Mrs. Dorsaneo said the council felt Chaum had assigned excessively high densities to undeveloped areas and had indicated that there should be development in many spots which the council said should remain as open space.

Among his suggestions which the council opposed she said were the following:

1. That about one-third of the Strawberry Spit area be opened to development;

2. That 100 more units be allowed on the Golden Gate Seminary property;

3. That a small scale marina be permitted in the Clipper Yacht Harbor area.

Also last night the council decided to ask the developers of Seaport Hills, an apartment-townhouse complex planned for Ricardo Road, to reduce the density of the project from 217 to 187 units and to convert 30 studio apartments to one-bedroom units. Mrs. Dorsaneo said the council decided it prefers tenants who rent the larger apartments rather than younger, single people who rent studios.

Tiburon Plan To Be Discussed

A special meeting to discuss the three-year-old Tiburon Downtown Plan will be held by the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee today at 8 p.m. at Del Mar School.

Representatives of Tiburon property owners associations have been invited to the discussion, according to Gordon Strawbridge, group secretary.

Tiburon is forming a redevelopment agency to encourage a developer to come in and build in accordance with the plan adopted by the city council.

Fatal Crash Blamed On A Pilot Error

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Government investigators reported today that pilot error — not sabotage —was the cause of the Chicago jetliner crash that killed the wife of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

Mrs. Dorothy Hunt, Rep. George Collins, D-Ill., and 43 other persons were killed when the United Air Lines Boeing 737 crashed near Midway Airport last Dec. 8.

TAXES

getting city-level services while paying only the county tax rate.

Supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Michael Wornum, who attended last night's council session in the Holiday Inn in San Rafael, left the room before Mayor Barnard began her report, a continuation of tax equity discussions at the June meeting.

Jones asked, "why did the two supervisors chicken out and leave?" When Giacomini returned just after the votes on the double-barreled policies, he was booed and hissed.

"What did I do," he asked. "I'm sure you'll be told if you wait in the bar following the meeting," he was told.

Mayor Barnard pointed out that Assembly Bill 974, which became law July 1, could require unincorporated communities for county service areas to finance the level of services that the cities previously partly financed.

"I think for Mill Valley to have to kick in $17,000 for the county planning budget" is wrong, Mrs. Barnard said. "I'm sure all the cities could use their money for other things."

The policy her tax equity committee drafted would also limit county road spending to gas tax funds actually raised from unincorporated areas and require the county to raise building inspection and current planning fees to cover the actual costs.

Other countywide services such as the county counsel's offices, assessment, tax collection, and animal control should be financed by both county and cities, the policy proposes.

Beer Driver Vote Count Not Known

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The National Labor Relations Board yesterday conducted a decertification election to see whether a Teamster's local should continue to represent Bay Area beer truck drivers who've been on strike since June 26.

So many ballots were challenged that it will be next week before the results are known, according to a spokesman for Local 888 of the Beer Drivers and Salesmen's Union. Of the 333 votes cast, 138 were challenged by one side or the other.

Marin and Sonoma beer supplies have periodically run low during the long strike, but many distributors have hired new drivers to man their trucks.

Robert T. Biggins, secretary-treasurer of Local 888, announced earlier that union drivers approved a contract in August with San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, but distributors in Marin, Sonoma and other Bay Area counties have refused to accept the same terms.

Magazine Seeks White House Pay

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A magazine that carried an article by convicted Watergate burglar James McCord has accused the White House of heisting two issues.

The Armed Forces Journal, a privately owned magazine, last month carried an exclusive article by McCord. The day after the edition appeared, the journal said in its current issue, a man appeared asking for copies of the article for "the White House, right away." He said he forgot to ask how many copies and walked out with two issues to a black, chauffered car to "call them on the radio." He never returned, the Journal said.

"If one of our White House readers could track this down and send us two bucks, it would save us from reporting an embarrassing White House 'theft'," the magazine concluded.

"I sold our house myself. But I'd never try to do it again!"

"You know how it is. You hear you can save money if you sell your home yourself. Well, I tried it, and learned a painful lesson the hard way.

I ran an ad and before I knew it, my family's life was turned upside-down. Our phone rang at all hours and total strangers appeared at the door demanding to be shown through. Our flowers were trampled and one day, as we came home, people were sitting on our doorstep.

I thought I had the house sold, but problems of the escrow-impounds, closing costs, title insurance, pre-payment penalty, termite work, eliminating deed encumbrances—delayed everything. (How can this stuff be so complicated!)

Then after all this, the buyer couldn't qualify for a loan. The house was finally sold, but while we were suffering by doing it ourselves, our neighbor's house across the street was sold for 15% more than ours. And it was essentially the same house! His sale was quick, smooth and professionally handled through a Realtor, who knew the true market value of the house. Sell your own home yourself? Take my advice and use a Realtor. You'll be glad you did."

Grass Seed For Burned Watersheds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Crop dusters and helicopters next month will drop grass seed bombs on two-thirds of the some 60,000 acres of prime watershed across the state wiped out by summer fires, the California Division of Forestry reported today.

State watershed experts said 70 tons of ryegrass seed would be scattered from the aircraft in an attempt to save the denuded watershed from excessive soil erosion.

The areas scheduled for reseeding include fire sites in Tuolumne, El Dorado, Lake and Riverside counties.

"The problem is timing," said Dr. L.T. Burcham, state coordinator of the project.

He also said the 70 tons of seed had already been ordered at 32 cents a pound and bids have been sought from private firms to conduct the air operations.

The fires, their acreage and the acreage that will be reseeded include:

Granite fire in Tuolumne County started Aug. 17, burning 17,470 acres of which 7,969 will be reseeded.

Pilliken fire in El Dorado County started Aug. 17, burning 10,942 acres of which 5,382 will be reseeded.

Barkersville fire in Lake County started Sept. 1, burning 22,000 acreas, 18,295 of which will be reseeded.

Soboba fire in Riverside County started June 7, burning 2,073 acres all of which will be reseeded.

Morongo fire in Riverside County started June 20, burning 7,110 acres, 6,939 of which will be reseeded.

State watershed experts also said three other fires, two in Humboldt County and one in Napa County, were being studied for possible revegetation projects. The fires broke out Sept. 7-8, charring 18,800 acres.

Only Unity Candidate: Weinberger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger of Health Education and Welfare said yesterday the only way he would consider running for governor of California is to be called on as a "unity candidate" for the Republican party.

He told newsmen he thought Gov. Ronald Reagan would make a better unity candidate and was still urging him to run for another term.

The exchange came when reporters asked Weinberger about his own political future at a White House briefing he was conducting on the vocational rehabilitation bill which Nixon signed into law today.

He conceded that several people had suggested that he vie for the Republican gubernatorial nomination but said he "hasn't had any time to think about it at all."

"I have never had any serious aspirations along those lines," he said. However, he said that the four or five Republicans contending for the nomination posed the risk of so splitting the party that the Democrats might emerge the victors.

"If I were called on as a unity candidate I would consider it a lot more seriously than I do now which is virtually zero," he said. Then smiling he added, "I haven't seen any overwhelming sentiment along these lines among the candidates."

Reagan's Absence Hit At Governors' Talks

GLENEDEN BEACH, Ore. (UPI) —Oregon Gov. Tom McCall said today that California Gov. Ronald Reagan's absence from the Western Governors Conference made it "more difficult" to find ways of dealing with the area's energy crisis.

"This was the most important place in terms of doing his job as governor that he could have been between Monday and Wednesday of this week," McCall said. "There wasn't even a top ranking aide of Gov. Reagan here."

Reagan was represented at the conference by a research assistant.

McCall, who was chairman and host of the conference, said the assistant will now have to go back and convey the conference's discussions and decisions to Reagan.

McCall and the governors of Washington, Idaho and Montana, the states which draw power from the Northwest power pool, signed a memorandum of agreement to work in unison in conserving energy.

California also gets some of its power from the power pool, and McCall said Reagan could also have signed that agreement had he been at the conference.

McCali said his objections to Reagan's absence was not a matter of "jealousy or pique," but it would have been easier to deal with the problem if the California governor had attended.

The only other western states governors who did not attend were Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton and Guam Gov. Carlos Camacho.

IT BEATS WASHING BY HAND

Golden Gate Transit's new $40,000 bus washer at the San Rafael base issues a clean coach just like this in just under a minute. The dirty water is recycled, the first such bus washer in Northern California, according to Bus Transit Mgr. H. Donald White. Buses are washed every other day in good weather and daily in rainy weather. Crews had been doing the mammoth job of cleaning the 188 buses by hand.

Novato Trustee Facing Censure

A steadily widening rift on the Novato School District board has broken into an open quarrel with one trustee threatening a colleague with public censure.

Drawing the ire of the chairman is freshman trustee Betty Machado, longtime critic of the board prior to her election last April.

At the Tuesday night board meeting this week, she reported the bickering that occurred at a closed meeting last Thursday on salary negotiations. She said fellow board member Ronald D. Schenck threatened her with removal from the board, "If I didn't have better boardmanship."

Jan Murray, acting chairman of the board said Mrs. Machado had been acting unilaterally "and making it look like her opinion was our opinion and making demands and requests of the staff and the rest of us felt this was not good boardmanship."

According to Murray, Schenck said if she didn't stop he would censure her publicly and move for a resolution instructing the staff not to listen to her instructions if they were solely from Mrs. Machado.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

LOMA VERDE — Approved a $9,500 project at Loma Verde School, sprinklers and turf on play fields, with the school parent-teacher association contributing $5,500 and the district contributing $4,000.

OLIVE SCHOOL — Accepted a gift of $600 from the Olive School Parent-Teacher Association for benches.

BOUNDARY CHANGES — Instructed staff to prepare a report on a proposal by trustee James E. Cassassa that attendance boundaries in the district be redrawn to correct imbalance in enrollment among various schools, the population burgeoning in West Novato and declining in the Hamilton Air Force Base attendance area.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to a special meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the boys' gymnasium at Novato High School to hear a report from the fact finding committee on the salary impasse between the district and the teachers.

Jackie's Request Is Ridiculed

MOSCOW (UPI) —Soviet scientist Vladimir A. Negovsky ridiculed an Italian magazine report that Jacqueline and Aristotle Onassis want to have their bodies frozen after death for possible later revival, saying this showed that even in death, there is no equality in the capitalist society.

"The process of freezing and keeping frozen corpses costs much money. Only the very wealthy can afford it," Negovsky said.

"And for these riches they are trying to buy eternity. How human relations must be distorted in a society which in fact abandons the idea of equality even in the face of death," he said.

Automotive Repair Shop Is Approved

Operation of an automotive repair garage at 286 Magnolia Avenue was approved Tuesday by the Larkspur Planning Commission after its owners assured the commission they would not dump garbage in Corte Madera Creek.

The commission approved the application of Philip Johnstad and Michael Piazza to operate the garage in a building which formerly housed a towing service.

Two citizens expressed concern during a public hearing on the application that the new establishment might dump garbage in the creek. But Johnstad and Piazza both assured the council they had no plans to dump anything in the creek.

The garage was approved on condition it operate between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays only, that no welding or paint work be done in the garage and that no dismantled automobiles be left overnight outside the garage.

According to Steve Solomon, the garage can be opened after a 15-day appeal period if no protest is received by the city council.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also changed commission policy to require that all variances be recorded with deeds including any conditions to the variance.

No-Fault Insurance To Become Law In Michigan

DETROIT (UPI) —No-fault automobile insurance will be mandatory for all Michigan motorists Monday after a last-ditch attempt by a group of state trial lawyers to get a court order delaying the law's effective date failed yesterday.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Horace Gilmore refused to grant a preliminary injunction sought by the Michigan trial lawyers association, a group of 21 law firms opposed to the innovative insurance reform.

"If a preliminary injunction were issued the entire automobile reparations system of the state of Michigan would be thrown into utter chaos," Gilmore said.

Gilmore agreed to conduct a full hearing on the constitutionality of the no-fault law on Nov. 19.

Under the new law, auto insurance becomes mandatory for all state drivers, including the estimated 600,000 motorists who did not have insurance earlier this year.

IBM Seeks New Trial On Award

TULSA (UPI) —International Business Machines Corp. yesterday moved for a new trial in the landmark antitrust suit in which Telex Corp. was awarded $352.5 million in treble damages.

IBM asked for a new trial on the amount of damages awarded in the billion dollar suit, in which the Tulsa-based firm accused IBM of monopoly in business tactics, and on the injunctions which restrict certain IBM business practices.

IBM also applied for corrections or changes in numerous findings of fact in the opinion which U.S. District Judge A. Sherman Christensen handed down in favor of Telex Sept. 17.

Suit Filed By Mafia Informer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A onetime informer against the Mafia filed suit for $12.6 million yesterday, saying government negligence led to the exposure of his "cover."

Gerald M. Zelmanowitz, whose testimony helped jail top underworld leaders in New Jersey, had moved to San Francisco after their trials and assumed the name "Paul Maris," with FBI help.

His real identity became known when he sued a firm that provided capital for his dress manufacturing firm.

Neil J. Bloomfield, his attorney, said his client's real identity was exposed by a private detective who was informed by government employes.

His suit against the federal government asks $8,350,000 for "pain, suffering and mental anguish," $3 million for loss of earnings, $1 million for the loss of his home in Sonoma and $250,000 for a former residence in Short Hills, N.J.

Bloomfield said his client lives in fear of his life because of reports that the "Mafia has an open 'contract' out for him."

Handicapped Fund Bill Is Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed a bill providing three quarters of a billion dollars annually for the next two years to train the handicapped for jobs.

Nixon had vetoed two earlier versions of the vocational rehabilitation program on grounds they were inflationary. Both provided substantially more money and extended the 53-year-old program for three years instead of two.

HISTORY ON WHEELS

Train To Herald 200th Birthday

BERNARDSVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Ross E. Rowland fires up like a steam locomotive when talking about his plan to celebrate America's 200th birthday.

His purpose is to bring this country's history to its people on a 25-car museum train.

Rowland, 33, has taken a three-year leave of absence from his six-figure job as an official of a Wall Street commodities concern to head the nonprofit American Freedom Train Foundation.

The foundation was approved as nonprofit last year by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and this June by the Internal Revenue Service.

"It's out to raise $20 million from all sources, including pennies from American school children, for "a fair on wheels" that Rowland believes is "so much better an idea than cities fighting to be the bicentennial city."

"We'll take the bicentennial to the American people," he says.

Railroad buff Rowland entertains no doubt that the project will get on the track. If it does, he'll be at the throttle of a steam locomotive in St. Augustine, Fla., or April 1, 1975.

The train will leave America's oldest city that day for a criss-cross, 15-month, 30,000-mile journey through all 48 of the contiguous states.

According to Rowland, the train will be a museum presenting the country's history "good and bad" since the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. It will utilize exhibits, slide movies, music and "all the latest theatrical techniques.

"We'll carry everything from the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia, if we can get it, to moon rocks," says Rowland.

The foundation has enlisted the aid of noted scholars to compile "the major things that have gone into the making of America," and to present the history fairly, he said. "We're dedicated to maintaining that the story told has no political bias and is free of commercialism. We also are open to suggestion."

He said he is not sure that the name "Freedom Train" is apropos, that someone may have a better name. But it is his hope that the historical presentation will "reaffirm those values and that spirit which led to the founding of the republic."

Rowland says it is his conviction that "with all of its problems and mistakes, America remains the single most important democratic republic in the history of mankind."

Equal Rights Drive Launched For Women

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Legislature voted this year to give equal community property rights and credit opportunities to California women and embark on a sweeping study of sex discrimination in the state's lawbooks.

The three areas top the list of big and small gains made by women in the male-dominated Legislature during the 250 days of the 1973 session.

Although other measures might be more immediate in their impact, women observers say the most significant piece of equal rights legislation could prove to be a joint Assembly-Senate resolution calling for study of California laws.

The approved measure (ACR33) by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, created a six-member joint legislative committee and an advisory panel with responsibility to:

"Ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to conforming California laws, regulations and administrative guidelines with the principle that equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged on account of sex."

The recently-appointed committee has among its members two of the Legislature's strongest women's rights supporters, Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, and Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park.

It must report to the full Legislature by June 30, 1975 with recommendations on how to remove sex barriers from the law books. One report this year said there were at least 200 such discriminatory laws and regulations.

Also with a target date of 1975 is a bill giving women equal power with their husbands to acquire and dispose of community property. Currently, husbands are the legal head of a household and its property.

Sponsored by Dymally, the measure (SB569) was before the governor.

A related bill (AB312) by Assemblyman Henry A. Waxman, D-Los Angeles, would make it illegal for creditors to treat women differently than men.

The measure, its supporters say, would be especially helpful to single women, divorcees and widows, who are frequently denied credit or denied credit in their own names because of the present community property laws.

It, too, was before the governor.

The Legislature also passed a bill (SB562) by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, granting women unemployment disability benefits when a pregnancy results in complications.

But it put off until next year final decision on a series of bills to allow women to register variously as "Ms." of "Mr." or with no designation whatsoever.

It also voted down one attempt to reverse California's ratification of the U.S. Equal Rights Amendment and set another aside for consideration next year.

Still another measure passed the Legislature giving single parents, mostly women, a reduction in state income taxes.

On the calendar for next year is a measure allowing a court to deduct child support payments from a parent's salary.

Dixie Board Revamps Maternity Leaves

Teachers and other employees of the Dixie School District who become pregnant may draw pay for the time they are actually deemed "physically disabled," the district board said last night.

Previously, pregnant teachers left work at the sixth month of pregnancy and received no pay for the time they took off, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

But a ruling by the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission last March requires that the district pay for pregnancy, he told the board last night.

"For that period of time when the employee is actually psysically disabled from performing her job, as certified by her doctor, she is entitled to use of accumulated sick leave and when that is exhausted, she is entitled to draw the difference in her pay and her substitute's pay," Campbell said.

"Maternity must be treated exactly the same as any illness, injury or other physical disablement that keeps a person from the job," according to the superintendent.

He said the new pay procedure may cost the district between $10,000 and $15,000 annually.

A pregnant teacher attending last night's board meeting appeared happy, Campbell reported.

The Dixie School District Board also:

CLAIM — Denied a claim by E. C. Sabel for $315, the cost of medical expenses for his son who broke an arm while at school.

PERSONNNEL — Employed teacher Mary Anne Driscoll at $4 per hour and Patrick Carney as a delivery man and instructional aide for $1,460 for a four-month period.

TEACHERS — Said district teachers have enrolled in college courses ranging from "Physical Education Methods" to "Indians of Marin" as part of a self-improvement program.

GRANT — Said district grants of $500 to local schools has allowed contracting with the Lawrence Hall of Science Van which will visit the district this year.

LAND — Declined to purchase several parcels of submerged land — in San Pablo Bay and in Miller Creek — that the county has offered for sale.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Oct. 10.

Salary has not yet been letermined, but her previous salary was $14,178, according to board secretary Judy Anderson.

Mrs. Zettl, appointed at a board meeting Tuesday, recently completed work for an administrative credential.

Reading specialist Marguerite Harris of Bolinas was named coordinator of Title I and Early Childhood Education programs, with a $1,000 per year salary.

Trustees approved the spending of $1,200 for a 16-week pilot music program and added $1,000 to the shop program budget, increasing it to $14,204 for this year.

Trustees also approved the hiring of Richard Pfeffer as teacher aide at an hourly rate of $3.50 for 15 hours work per week and dismissed maintenance supervisor Ben Meyer. Meyer was injured last year and is unable to perform his duties, Miss Anderson said.

Congressman To Give Sermon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has invited Republican Congresman William Hudnut of Indiana, an ordained Presbyterian minister, to conduct the first White House worship services in six months on Oct. 14.

The President had originally planned to have the service in the East Room on Oct. 7 but it was learned yesterday he postponed it a week to enable government dignitaries and other prospective guests to enjoy a three-day weekend over the Columbus Day holiday.

Nixon last attended a worship service on Easter Sunday, April 22, at the Key Biscayne Presbyterian Church.

House Acts To Aid Construction

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The energy shortage gripping America is causing new problems: delays in highway construction and shortages of sugar.

In attempts to help the problem, a House committee yesterday approved mandatory fuel allocations; the United Foundation in Detroit decided against burning its traditional 44-foot torch during this year's fundraisng drive; a regional commission in New England allocated $385,000 for a study of the area's energy problems; and a trio of Southern governors threatened to withhold fuel from any state that, for environmental reasons, holds back on refinery and exploratory operations.

J. Phillip Richley, director of the Ohio Transportation Department, said yesterday a dwindling national supply of crude oil for making asphalt will result in the delay of completion of at least 34 state highway paving and construction projects.

William R. Ralls, of the Michigan Public Service Commission, warned sugar is suffering from the energy crisis. "Michigan housewives depend on state farmers for 90 per cent of their sugar and the industry is now critically short of fuel to process a sugar beet crop," he said.

The House Commerce Committee yesterday approved legislation directing President Nixon to impose mandatory fuel allocations within 25 days. The Senate approved a similar bill last May.

Sponsored by Rep. Torbert H. McDonald, D-Mass., the bill would guarantee that independent marketers of gasoline and fuel oil, including branded, nonbranded, and franchised dealers, could receive supplies.

The United Foundation in Detroit announced it will not burn its 44-foot torch during the annual charity torch drive campaign this year because of the energy shortage. "We thought the gas could be put to a better use," a UF official said.

In Salem, Ore., city council approved a six-month moratorium on construction of street lights in residential areas.

Oklahoma Corporation Commission chairman Charles Nesbitt predicted defeat of any effort by Southern governors to curtail fuel exports to other states.

The governors of Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma threatened Tuesday to refuse fuel to states that hold back on exploration and refinery operations for environmental reasons.

"They may feel that it has some value as a threat," Nesbitt said. "To go ahead and accomplish it is something I don't think the governors can do.

The New England Regional Commission yesterday authorized the expenditure of $385,000 for studies and programs aimed at solving the region's immediate and long-range fuel problems.

Father Seen As Credit Card Culprit

Stolen property charges were dropped yesterday against a Novato man when it appeared his father was the culprit.

But the legal woes aren't over for Joseph Antone Homen III, 20. He still faces two felony drug counts in Marin Superior Court.

Municipal Court Judge David R. Baty agreed to dismiss the charge due to evidence showing that credit cards thought to be stolen, seized at Homen's house, were the responsibility of his father, Joseph Homen Sr., 42.

"If anyone should be filed on," said Deputy Dist. Atty. Kathryn D. Mitchell, "the evidence indicates it should be his father." But she said she doesn't know if any charge will be filed.

Both Homens are awaiting trial in Marin Superior Court for possessing marijuana for sale and cultivating the weed.

Novato police said they found 200 suspected marijuana plants growing at the Homen house Aug. 10.

Bay Oil Spill Being Cleaned

Blobs of crude oil from a 2,000-gallon spill near Alameda were being scooped from San Francisco Bay today, the Coast Guard reported.

Some of the oil had drifted as far as Treasure Island by midmorning, but Pacific Pollution Control crewmen had strung 1,800 feet of booms and were using two amphibious vessels to pick up the oil.

The Coast Guard said source of the spill is unknown, and still under investigation. It was first spotted at 1 a.m. by a passing tugboat. Lockheed's new oil recovery vessel, which the Coast Guard is testing on the bay, won't be needed in the operation, guard spokesmen said.

Information On Park To Be Given

An information party will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Lisa Baack home, 37 Rosebank Avenue, Kentfield, for Greenbrae, Larkspur and Kentfield residents who wish to know more about a proposed park behind Marin Catholic High School.

The party is sponsored by the Committee for a Creekside Park, a group of people supporting a November bond issue for residents of County Service Area 17 to secure funds to purchase the 27-acre park site and a tax increase to maintain the park.

Diplomat Dies

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Eduardo Zuleta Angel, 74, former Colombian foreign minister and the diplomat who presided at the first United Nations assembly in London, died today.

Atlantis Search Leaders Face $1 Million Action

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — The leaders of the unsuccessful Atlantis expedition were sued for $1 million yesterday by a father and son who invested in a proposed documentary film on the search for the mythical lost continent.

John D. Couturie, a Hughes Aircraft Corp. executive, and his son, William, filed suit in superior court against Dr. Julian Nava, member of the Los Angeles Board of Education, and Maxine Asher, former co-directors of the Ancient Mediterranean Research Association.

The association, with Mrs. Asher in charge, mounted the expedition during the summer, taking some 50 persons, who paid up to $2,800 each, to the coast of Spain to look for the lost continent.

Mrs. Asher announced that its scuba divers had found Atlantis but the divers said later they had found nothing of the sort. Spanish authorities banned further diving and the expedition had to leave the country.

Lack Of Water Bond Endorsement Questioned

A Marin Municipal Water District spokesman was sharply asked last night why the district board hasn't formally adopted a resolution urging voters to approve Measure E, the $7.5 million water supply bond issue on the Nov. 6 ballot.

"A feeling I have is that the directors are leaving it up to the people," water district counsel Tom Thorner told the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen. (Another mayors and councilmen story, page 1.)

San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen, new chairman of the countywide cities' group, warned that he would rule out of order any motion to endorse the water bond at last night's meeting. It could be put on the agenda for the Oct. 24 meeting, if any city wishes, he explained. None spoke up to do so.

The councilmen and mayors first listened to Thorner and a district engineer describe the proposal to provide 8,000 more acre feet of water from North Marin County Water District and Sonoma County if Measure E finances the necessary pipeline.

San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini then pointedly asked, "Will your water board endorse Measure E and urge people to vote for it?"

The board "has an argument on the ballot" for the measure and directors are "speaking at functions . . . I don't know whether they're endorsing it at meetings," Thorner replied.

"It would seem to me your board would come out with a resolution," Bettini pressed.

Thorner said that two directors favor a resolution, one opposes and two say "let the people decide."

"What about the moratorium" if the bond issue passes, asked Larkspur Councilman Joan Sestak. "Three directors have said they would end it and one wouldn't," Thorner replied. (Water board chairman Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. was absent from the meeting Monday at which the issue was debated but not formally resolved.)

Thorner said the water district is committed to follow the population limits in the countywide plan, and is willing to "adopt a regulation" requiring each new hookup applicant to provide certification from the appropriate city or county agency that his project would not exceed the plan's growth goals.

Thorner said one factor against the bond measure was "the watergate syndrome — lack of confidence in public officials."

Council Of Mayors And Councilmen Also:

AWARDS — Watched California State Auto Association officials pass out plaques to nine cities for having no pedestrian traffic fatality: Larkspur, none for 23 years; Sausalito, none for 18 years; San Anselmo, none for 17 years; Novato, none for 12 years; Mill Valley and Corte Madera, none for eight years; Belvedere, none for seven years, and San Rafael, none for two years.

LITTER — As requested by Survival, Inc., unanimously endorsed Assembly Bill 595, which would curb non-returnable containers.

RETIREMENT — Adopted a resolution of thanks to Corte Madera Mayor Holmes S. Norville, longtime mayors council booster, who was recalled by the voters last week.

BURGLARY — Unanimously endorsed the "Project 459" anti-burglary program outlined by Andrea Boggs of the county's Criminal Justice Planning Department.

APPOINTMENTS — Put off to the October meeting nominations for council appointments to the Association of Bay Area Governments, Marin Transit District board and county Airport Land Use Commission.

MEETINGS — Changed the date for the October meeting, which would have fallen on Halloween, from Oct. 31 to Oct. 24 in Sausalito. Set the Nov. 28 meeting for Tiburon and the council's Christmas party for Dec. 14 at Peacock Gap.

Burglars Nailed By Seismograph

RENO, Nev. (UPI) —The seismograph at the University of Nevada normally is used to detect earthquakes, but it also can detect burglars.

Seismograph technicians said they could tell by the instrument's quivering needle Tuesday that somebody was walking inside the old mine shaft where the remote equipment is located.

They called sheriff's deputies, who arrived in time to arrest three persons outside the mine and recover electrical equipment from the seismological facility worth about $5,700.

Ruckelshaus Begins His Fourth Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) —William D. Ruckelshaus began his fourth job in the Nixon administration yesterday Wednesday when he was sworn in as deputy attorney general, the No. 2 position at the Justice Department.

Ruckelshaus, 41, succeeds Joseph T. Sneed, who has been named to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco.

Slaughterhouse On The Wheels

RENO, Nev. (UPI) —Nevada cattle rustlers are operating a slaughterhouse on wheels that has meat ready for sale by the time it gets back to town, the State Farm Bureau has reported.

Stolen cows are butchered in a van immediately after stolen and the hide and innards are thrown out along the way, the bureau said Tuesday. The carcass is ready for sale by the time the van is back from a raid.

Bill Limiting Immigrants Is Passed By House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has approved legislation that would limit to 20,000 per year the number of immigrants allowed to enter the United States from a western hemisphere nation.

The bill would also establish priorities that would place emphasis on reuniting families.

Under present law, total immigration from all western hemisphere nations is limited to 120,000 per year. That total limitation will still apply, but no one nation will be able to take more than 20,000 of the total.

Wax Figures Mutilated

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Someone hid in the Hollywood Wax Museum overnight and decapitated or mutilated the likenesses of 27 persons, police discovered yesterday.

Those damaged included W.C. Fields, Raquel Welch, Barbra Streisand, Mae West, Jean Harlow, bandit Joaquin Murrieta, Susan Hayward and Sonny and Cher.

Likenesses of former U.S. Presidents Calvin Coolidge, Ulysses Grant and William McKinley were damaged, but not those of President Richard Nixon or John Kennedy.

Neptune's Larder Is Not Endless

By PHYLLIS HANES

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

HONOLULU — Many people today are counting on the ocean to help supply the protein needed to feed the peoples of this world.

This optimism is reasonable, since we are now catching for food only about 200 of the 25,000 or more existing species of fish. And there is hardly a sea animal that cannot be eaten after proper preparation.

"But," warns John E. Bardach, director of the Hawaii Institute of Marine Biology at the University of Hawaii, "there is a possibility we could blow the whole thing — as we did with the land.

"As today's beef supplies depend on wheat and grain for livestock, so fish supplies depend in a large part on plant plankton and floating algae, known to most people as seaweed," he said. "Right now, almost a fifth of all the algae in the sea is being used up in feeding us every year, which indicates that the resources of the sea are far from limitless."

Dr. Bardach feels we must remember, too, that a great quantity of fish that are caught are not utilized directly but go into feed for land animals. "Not only the chicken industry of the United States, Europe, and South Africa, but other animal-rearing schemes rely heavily on the small plankton-feeding, schooling fishes of the upwelling areas of the sea.

"This practice of feeding animals with fishmeal is wasteful, since it lengthens the food chain by one more link. Only 15 per cent, at best, of the input reappears as meat that can be used."

WILLIAM Van HEUKELEM
Marine biologist

Marine scientists today also are worried about the contamination of the ocean from herbicides and radioactivity and garbage. They are concerned with the knowledge that although fish lay millions of eggs, most of the larvae that develop from those eggs die; and they are aware of the other signs of depletion and over-fishing.

Unfortunately, because of some problems, such as finding economical feed, scientists cannot pick and choose which species they will study and cultivate first.

Of the thousands of fish in the area, the seafood that Americans like best, for example, are those that are carnivores, rather than herbivores, and are fish that have difficult and/or expensive feeding habits.

"In the developing countries, on the other hand, lack of protein is an ever increasing problem, and traditional food habits are different.

"What these countries must try to produce are the herbivorous grazers of the sea, lakes, or rivers — the animals that feed directly on plants and therefore are comparable to cows and goats," according to Dr. Bardach.

Experiments with sea animals, such as turtles and plant-eating fishes, are also being done at the Coconut Island laboratory, operated jointly by the University of Hawaii and the University of California, which Dr. Bardach also heads.

One of the animals under study is the octopus.

"Although Americans don't like them as a rule, octopuses are prized as fine food in Mediterranean countries, Central America, South America, Pacific islands, Asia, and the Caribbean," says William F. Van Heukelem, Jr., a marine biologist.

"The octopus has many advantages for controlled culture," Van Heukelem feels. "It grows quickly — from hatching to market size of one to three pounds in six months. They use their food very efficiently. On the average 50 per cent of ingested food goes into growth. Most animals convert only 10 per cent."

The disadvantage in commercially raising octopuses, however, is the problem of food, since octopuses are carnivorous. At present they are fed fresh or frozen fish or crustaceans. But with further research, scientists say, it should be possible to prepare a low-cost diet from cheap ingredients such as soy, fishmeal, shrimpmeal, and other materials plus an added flavor that is attractive to the sea animals.

"At the present, the most important of our aqua and mariculture endeavors is the production of the giant prawn, which is sold commercially in Hawaiian fish markets," said Dr. Bardach.

Tasty, freshwater prawns that grow as big as one pound each are being marketed right now as a result of the intensive prawn study conducted by the Hawaii Division of Fish and Game.

Large, tender, and somewhat like the New England lobster in flavor, this cultured prawn is a luxury food, selling for about $4 a pound live in the Tamashiro Market in Honolulu. And, because live prawns are very special among Oriental peoples, fish markets are usually sold out in about an hour, to people waiting in line.

At the state division's Keehi Fishery Station in Honolulu, the Malaysian prawns are now being grown by the hundreds of thousands. This is the only station in the world that has the technology and facility for raising freshwater prawns on a mass scale.

"Aquaculture has various goals among which the replenishment of Neptune's larder for luxury consumption is just one," Dr. Bardach said.

"The others — conservation and the production of bait for much larger gain, as well as the production of sport fish for recreation, are of no less importance, as is learning how to husband the true herbivores of the sea for those millions who really need the animal protein."

Survivor Of Sea Ordeal Tells Of Wife's Burial

HONOLULU (UPI) —Robert Tininenko described the burial at sea of his wife, Linda, who died Aug. 11 in the Pacific Ocean after clinging to the wreckage of their capsized boat for 30 days.

"We wrapped her up. We said our prayers. And we sent her down."

During a news conference in a hospital yesterday Tininenko talked about his 72-day ordeal at sea before he and James Fisher were rescued Friday by a British freighter.

He said both he and Fisher knew Linda was in shock from the moment their trimaran, the Triton, capsized about 40 miles north of San Francisco. Tininenko said she had been seasick even before the incident, and was given most of their food and water.

Still, he said, her condition worsened. Despite several attempts to revive her by artificial respiration, Linda died at sea Aug. 11 and was buried by the two men.

During a flight from Midway Island to Honolulu, Tininenko told a Coast Guard journalist he learned to accept the death of his wife by maintaining personal discipline and continuing his philosophy of life, "Take things as they come."

Tininenko said the trimaran capsized in gale-force winds and, when it overturned, "There was panic for all of us at first, but then we realized we would be all right."

He said the men averted boredom by fishing, although they never caught anything, and said they hacked a hole through the bottom of the boat and hid during the daytime in an air pocket to avoid intense sunburn.

But, because they were hidden, several boats which passed did not see them. Even the British freighter that spotted the wreckage did not see any sign of life, but later turned around and rediscovered the wreckage at the request of the Coast Guard.

Tininenko appeared with his two sons, mother, father and brother who arrived in Honolulu. He was wheeled into the interview room, and said he was tired and weak. But he showed visible improvement over Tuesday when he was flown here.

California Pear Crop Excellent

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California's pear crop this year was one of the biggest and best on record, according to the California Fresh Bartlett Promotion Advisory Board.

The board said the crop was the largest since 1962 and that sugar content—which makes pears good tasting—averaged 33 per cent above normal.

The fine pears of 1973 were attributed to moderate temperatures which prevailed through the critical growing period.

Hospitalization Of Children Is Explored

By BETTY FROST

How to give a child a normal experience in an abnormal situation is the question explored in the recently published book, "The Effects of Hospitalization on Children" co-edited by the husband and wife team, Dr. Jerome D. Oremland and Evelyn K. Oremland of Sausalito.

The book was an outgrowth of a symposium conducted by Dr. Oremland, a member of the faculty of the San Francisco Psychoanalytic Institute and chairman of the Institute's extension division. The symposium, held in San Francisco in 1970, brought together authorities in the fields of psychiatry, psychoanalysis, pediatrics, surgery, nursing, social work, psychology, occupational therapy and anthropology to discuss the responses of children to hospitalization. The symposium was sponsored by a grant from the Rosenberg Foundation of San Francisco.

The enthusiastic reaction of the expert participants indicated the need for further research on the subject. The workshop sessions were a springboard for preparation of detailed papers, which were edited for inclusion in the book.

TO ILLUSTRATE the need of the child patient for an advocate in the hospital situation, Mrs. Oremland related a poignant incident. A nurse spoke to a child over the hospital's intercom system, and when the youngster did not respond, she asked him again to please reply. The child then asked "What do you want, wall?"

"Children need someone to relate to," Mrs. Oremland said, "perhaps a nurse with special training, or a parent who can remain with the child to express his fears to members of the hospital staff.

"Not only small children, but adolescents can get lost in a hospital situation, and sometimes parents, too, are frightened and intimidated," she said. "It is important not to deceive a child, and to explain that he will feel pain, although the concept of pain is difficult to explain to a young child. Each individual child needs individual evaluation. Some gain strength from a successful adjustment to the hospital experience, while others find it a traumatic experience and will need help during and after hospitalization to overcome their difficulties."

Mrs. Oremland brings considerable experience to this subject. She received the Master of Social Welfare degree from the University of California at Berkeley after having graduated from the University of Washington in Seattle. She directed a play program for children at the University of California Hospital in San Francisco.

IN A play situation the children often acted out their fears and aggressions," the social worker said. She spoke of a little girl about 4 who had been hospitalized shortly after the birth of a new baby in the family. Fearing that her hospitalization was a rejection or an exchange for the baby born in the same hospital, she made clay models of her parents and babies, and broke them.

Mrs. Oremland frequently gives lectures to nurses on family medicine, and next spring will be teaching a course on Hospitalization of Children at the University of California Extension Division in the Department of Social Welfare for health professionals and others who are interested.

"It is not uncommon for a child to have an emergency room experience," Mrs. Oremland said.

One doctor who participated in the symposium, Dr. George A. Hyde Jr., attending surgeon at Children's Hospital in San Francisco, noted that in emergency treatment for cuts, removal of foreign objects and the like, "Often the child has been doing something forbidden. He is hurt, frightened and has been brought to unfamiliar surroundings for treatment, which may be preconceived by the child as being painful."

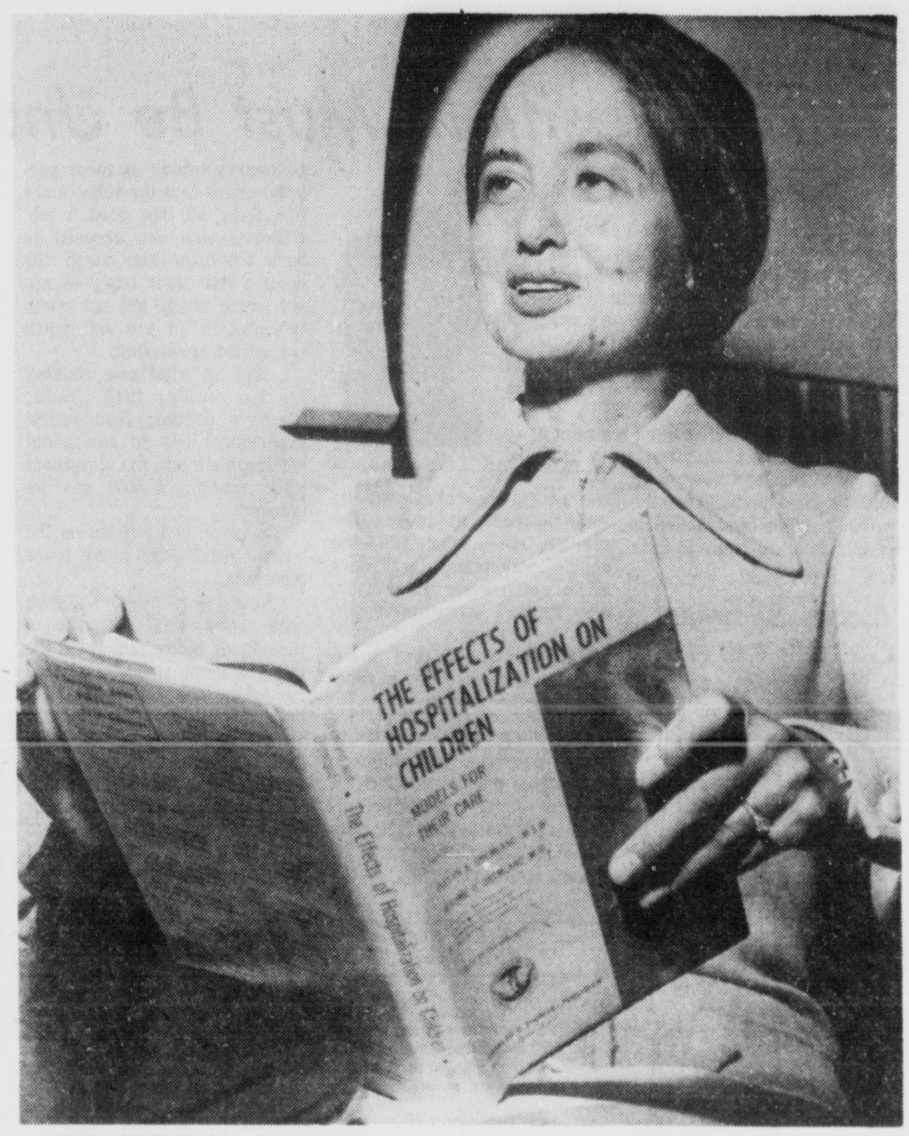
TO COUNTERACT these fears Dr. Hyde meets the child and his parents, asks the child some non-medical questions expressing his interest in the child as a person. He does not wear a white coat or gown and usually wears a cowboy belt. During the treatment he praises the child, and reassures the youngster that he will soon be home.

With surgery that has been scheduled there is time to prepare the child for the experience. Children entering the hospital for surgery have three main concerns: separation from home, anesthesia and the surgical operation itself.

"Many doctors and nurses are now aware of the child's needs," Mrs. Oremland said, "but in the book we reemphasize their importance." Sections are devoted to the newborn, the premature baby, transplants, the pediatric ward and the dying child.

The Oremlands have lived in Sausalito for 13 years. They have three children, Cici, 12; Noah, 10, and Annalisa, 8, who all attend Marin Country Day School.

Dr. and Mrs. Oremland are now preparing for another large symposium next year, which will deal with sex education for young children.



THE EFFECTS of Hospitalization on Children," based upon the experience and opinions of 45 health care experts, was co-edited by Evelyn K. Oremland of Sausalito. The book was an outgrowth of a symposium conducted by Dr. Jerome D. Oremland.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Virgin Sits Home By Herself Feeling Discriminated Against

RAP:

The "disillusioned girls" who want fun but no sex games yet, aren't quite alone, but they are probably as lonely as I am. Here's what I wrote last night:

WHAT IS A VIRGIN?

A virgin is someone who is classified as "abnormal."

She is something a "normal" 14-year-old girl shouldn't be in this generation. (Much less a 17-year-old, which is what I am.)

A virgin is one who stays home weekends unless she's going someplace, like church, where she won't be snickered at.

A virgin is one most males won't even glance at.

She is someone whose only highlight of the week is looking forward to getting loaded all alone.

A virgin is somebody who asks herself every day, "Why?" "Why can't I be like Sally down the way and put out to anyone whether I like him or not?"

She gets to listen to her best girlfriend tell about the great (wild) party last Saturday night. (She wasn't invited, guess why.)

A virgin is somebody who deep down inside feels there has to be a guy out there who will at least be her friend before he expects her to hop between the sheets.

She's a girl who knows she's as good looking as Sally, but what good does it do her?

A virgin sits home all weekend hoping her phone will ring, but it doesn't because she's in a "minority group," and that means she's discriminated against. — ONE OF AN ALMOST EXTINCT SPECIES

OAES:

As long as you hang around with "Sally down the way" and other put-outs, you'll keep on thinking everybody does it just for kicks.

Actually, only a few teens take sex this lightly. The "fun and games" type is much in the minority, though many young people, according to our teen survey, accept sex with commitment.

Look for a different crowd . . . and don't knock church. These days you'll find a lot of other 17 and 18-year-olds there. — HELEN

OAES:

Sometimes (I hope not in your case) a girl blames dateless weekends on her virginity when it's actually her personality that keeps the boys away.

Our teen survey shows there are almost as many virgin boys as girls — and, what's more, these fellows aren't even concerned about it. — SUE

SUE:

Mike and I have been going together for a year. My parents approve of him and even have hopes of us getting married, but they won't let me drive with him — that is, when Mike is the driver. He's over 17, has had no accidents and is careful.

But I think the real reason they don't want me going in his car is that they're afraid we'll become sex fiends if we have a car to use.

They don't realize that the "portable bedroom" thing went out a long time ago. If we really wanted a bedroom (which we don't) we wouldn't use a car! That's juvenile! What are your thoughts and how do I persuade my folks, Sue? — MARCIA, (almost 16)

MARCIA:

Why don't you have a straight-out talk with your parents? Tell them what every older teen knows: cars are no longer for backseat sex . . . And tell them you aren't for the bedroom thing either: they need reassuring.

Then, suggest they "double" with you to a movie, with Mike driving. That will prove he's careful in other ways too. — SUE

Strike Positions Must Be Understood

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Parents and school children in hundreds of communities across the United States are going to have to exercise enormous restraint and patience when striking teachers return to their classrooms. And unless a conscious effort is made to understand strike issues, a whole school year may be lost in a welter of accusations, recriminations, and classroom tension.

Teachers must practice such restraint daily when dealing with children from troubled homes. A teacher may work long and hard to build confidence in a child (and hence to free him to learn), only to have the confidence shattered by some discord at home. The teacher then rebuilds the child's perceptions, and once again watches her work disappear through insensitive conditions in the home.

When there is discord in the school system, it is the parents who must be patient.

TEACHERS WHO have deliberately caused a work stoppage in a school district in an effort to force better working conditions and more pay from the school district often come in for strong home criticism. Some taxpayers (many of them parents) argue that the schools are not doing all that good a job. Children who are exposed to such criticism may form the opinion that their teachers are not worth much, are not worth listening to, or are not worth respecting or obeying.

Listen to what one striking teacher (male; fifth grade; master's degree; four years' experience) has to say about coming back into the classroom after winning a $500 pay increase:

"Someone had written on the board, 'Paychecks mean more than kids.'

"Now, that hurt. I didn't quite know what to do so I thought we better talk about the strike and the issues. I started by asking the kids what they knew about the strike. It was awful. They knew all the hate talk, all the opposition slogans. Finally one of them blurted out, 'don't you really care about kids?'

"I tried to tell them that I loved each and every one of them. That the reason I went out on strike had been so that I could keep loving them, could go on teaching. But it was tough. They had been brainwashed to believe that any teacher who had gone out on strike was against the flag, motherhood, apple pie, and them."

PERHAPS THIS teacher is super-sensitive. But many teachers report similar problems. They explain that what they win at the bargaining table in the form of improved working conditions they lose in the classroom from disrespectful students. And as anyone who has spent much time in a school knows, a bitter teacher and a classroom full of cynical children is anything but a learning environment.

The place to strike back at teachers is at the bargaining table and in the state legislatures. There is every reason why taxpayers should demand return for their dollars from all public-service employees — teachers included. But trying to hurt teachers by discrediting them with their students is self-defeating at best.

Children who hold little respect for their teachers, and who think their parents will be pleased (not annoyed) with them if they are rude and disrespectful in the classroom, generally learn very little even from teachers who are dedicated.

SOMEHOW, THE burden is on parents and other responsible adults to help children understand why they are against the strike (if they are, and why it is when schools re-open that they must all put the strike and its issues behind them and get on with the business of learning.

It might be very helpful for parent-teacher organizations to take up this issue directly involving as many children as possible in a series of programs which explore all issues and positions leading up to and including the strike. Even primary-age children can be taught to understand why their "favorite" teacher kept them out of school and what all the signs, picket lines, and meetings were all about.

Surely a better understanding of the issues will, of course, go a long way toward healing the situation and returning pupils and teachers to happy (not strike-torn) classrooms.

How to keep a little swatch of carpet from becoming a wall-to-wall mistake.

The Ethan Allen Guide To Buying Carpet.

It's very easy to fall in love with the wrong carpet.

And something that looked perfectly terrific in the store could wind up looking perfectly disastrous in your home.

But at our Ethan Allen Gallery, we can keep you from making that mistake. To begin with, you won't be pressured by some fast talking carpet salesman. You'll talk with an experienced home planner. Someone who understands carpeting and how it fits into the overall pattern of decorating your home.

And instead of trying to sell you just anything, he'll be working to find the one carpet that's right for you.

Color. If you don't know what color you want, we'll help you find the one that does the most for the room you plan to carpet. If you do know what you want, we'll show you a wide selection. Because if you want blue, we think you should have a choice of blues from pale to navy.

On the other hand, we won't let you go overboard on color. Remember, a swatch of bright purple may look great in your hand, but it could drive you crazy in a 20 x 30 living room.

Fiber. To help complicate things, there are dozens of fibers to choose from. Some are more resilient than others. Some hold a more brilliant color. Some hold up better under traffic.

But if you can tell us where your carpet is going and how it's going to be used, you don't have to know a lot about fiber. Our expert will help you pick the one that's best for you.

Texture. Choosing a texture can be tricky. Something that feels wonderful under your bare feet may look terrible under your furniture.

Talk with our home planner. About your furniture, your draperies, even your accessories. He'll help you surround them with a carpet texture that shows them off at their best.

Construction. How a carpet is constructed is a good indication of how well it will wear. And while we don't think you want to know the difference between an Axminster and a Wilton, we're sure you're concerned about carpet wear.

A simple discussion with our home planner will help determine the right construction for the rooms you're carpeting.

Price. When you shop for carpet, don't shop price. Because the most expensive carpet may not be the best. And the cheapest may not be the smartest buy.

Shop for value.

At our Ethan Allen Gallery we have carpets in all price ranges. But, most important, they're priced to give you the best value for your money.

Making The Right Decision. Selecting the right carpet is not as tough as it seems. With a little knowledge and a lot of help, it can be easy.

And, at our Ethan Allen Gallery, we not only give you a lot of help, we give you the right kind of help. Decorating help.

So, stop by and see the wide choice of carpet selections in our Home Fashion Center. We can promise you this.

You won't walk out of the store with the wrong one.

We can help you have the home you want.

GAZER'S GUIDE

Planets Bright In Evening Sky

By DR. THOMAS D. NICHOLSON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Oct. 3: The moon is at apogee, its greatest distance from earth.

Oct. 5: Jupiter becomes visible at dusk this evening high in the south, just below and to the left of the moon. The moon moves closer to the planet before they both set at about midnight.

Oct. 11: The full moon tonight is the hunter's moon. As with the harvest moon in September, the delay in the time of moonrise from night to night is much less than average, though the effect is not so pronounced.

Oct. 12-13: Mars is so bright that it can be seen easily below the moon on both evenings, despite the glow of the nearly full moon. The moon drifts from right (west) of Mars on the night of the 12th to left (east) of the planet on the 13th.

Oct. 15: The moon is at perigee, nearest earth.

Oct. 16: Mars is nearest to the earth tonight, at a distance of 40,532,000 miles, closer than it has been since 1971. This is what accounts for the unusual brightness of the planet, exceeding that of Jupiter this month. Mars approaches most closely to earth at intervals of about two years two months, and its distance at such times can vary from about 35 million to about 65 million miles. Though the planet can be closer and brighter than it is this October, it will not be as near or as bright as it is now for another 15 years.

Oct. 17: Look for Saturn very near the moon in the dawn sky this morning. It is covered by the moon at about 6:00 a.m., eastern standard time, in the skies over the northern part of North America, including the cities of Halifax and Montreal. The planet also becomes stationary in right ascension today and begins its retrograde (westward) motion as it approaches opposition in December.

Oct. 18: Mercury is at greatest easterly elongation in the evening sky. But this is an unfavorable elongation. The planet is too low at sunset and sets too soon after to be visible.

Oct. 21: The Orionid meteor shower reaches maximum, and morning skies will be dark until the waning crescent moon rises just before dawn. A moderate shower, but often producing swift, bright meteors, the observer can expect an average of about 25 meteors per hour.

Oct. 24: Mars is at opposition. The brilliant reddish planet is now in the sky all night, rising at sunset, setting in the morning at sunrise.

Oct. 27: Mercury is occulted by the moon in the sky all night, rising at sunset, setting in the morning at sunrise.

Oct. 29: Venus and the crescent moon make a pretty picture together in the evening twilight sky.

Oct. 30: Mercury begins its retrograde motion as it moves in between earth and sun.

Oct. 31: The moon is at apogee, greatest distance from the earth.

All month: It will be many years before you will find again such brilliant planets in the evening sky as we have this October. Within an hour of sunset, you will find three of them, each far brighter than any star we see in our sky. Venus is low in the southwest, brightest of the three; Jupiter is just a little to the right of south; and Mars, brighter than Jupiter and redder in color, is rising in the east. Venus sets shortly before midnight; but Mars remains until dawn. Mercury is also an evening star for the month, but poorly placed for observing.

In the morning, Mars is easily found in the west until late in the twilight, and Saturn, among the stars of Gemini, is high in the east.

Tapes Said Key To Convictions

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Watergate defendants such as John Ehrlichman might be difficult to convict if the U.S. Supreme Court supports President Nixon's refusal to release White House tapes, the president of the American Bar Association said yesterday.

Chesterfield H. Smith, Lakeland, Fla., told a news conference he believed it would be impossible to try Ehrlichman if his defense required unobtainable tapes.

Smith said he believes the President has a good argument in the tapes controversy. If that argument prevails, he said, it may preclude trial of defendants who claim the tapes would prove their innocence.

But he said he believed Nixon would release the tapes if the high court ordered.

Postal Chief Promises Better Holiday Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The nation's No. 1 mailman said today he is determined to avoid a repetition of the nationwide mail crisis which occurred last Christmas and brought loud protests from the public and Congress.

Postmaster Gen. Elmer T. Klassen, a blunt-speaking, former president of American Can Co., told UPI in an interview that if there are any serious foulups in mail service during the Christmas season this year," there are a lot of us who won't be around in January."

Klassen said he plans to make unannounced trips to post offices around the country in the next several weeks to make certain the mail is moving properly.

The Postal Service also has begun its annual campaign urging the public to send packages and cards early to avoid the Christmas rush, although the holidays are more than three months away, he said.

It has been nearly three years since the Postal Service, a quasipublic corporation, came into being. It replaced the 187-year-old Post Office Dedepartment, which was operated by the federal government.

Klassen, who earns $60,000 annually in his non-cabinet post, has spent the past year coping with complaints that long distance mail delivery is slower now than five years ago.

Lie Charged In State Welfare Pay Claims

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A social workers organization charged today the Reagan administration "lied" when it promised that 430,000 aged, disabled and blind welfare recipients would receive a benefit increase under its supplemental aid program.

The state Social Welfare Department immediately denied the allegation. "It is their word against the statistics which have been costed out by our people," a spokesman said.

The California branch of the National Association of Social Workers jumped into the running controversy of claims and counter claims swirling around Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan to implement his own program for supplemental payments to adult welfare recipients on Jan. 1.

At a news conference, Betty Gillespie Pollack, the group's executive secretary, accused administration officials of "manipulating" figures in the last few hectic days of the legislative session to demonstrate that some 80 per cent of the recipients would receive grant increases.

She said "at least" 50 per cent of the aged and blind would receive $30 a month less while the disabled are in "imminent danger of receiving no state supplement at all."

The group's lobbyist, Linda Bardis, charged it was an "outright lie" to say some 80 per cent would receive an increase.

The department stuck to its guns.

"Approximately 86 per cent of adult recipients in December would receive an increase in total income the next month and this takes into consideration the December cost of living increase," a spokesman said.

Prison Art Show Set On Saturday

San Quentin prison'a annual art show and sale will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The show usually attracts more than 20,000 visitors and raises about $30,000 for the inmates' trust accounts.

Art show visitors will be permitted to use the visitors' parking lot inside the prison, but are requested not to bring in cameras, according to William D. Nyberg, San Quentin information officer. No men wearing blue jeans will be admitted because of the similarity to inmates' garb, Nyberg cautioned.

Inmates will display paintings and drawings in many media, sculptures, and leather, copper and wood handicraft creations. Traditionally, the art works awarded prizes by the show's judges are auctioned off late in the day, sometimes selling for hundreds of dollars each.

Lockets Holding Columbus Dust To Be Auctioned

NEW YORK (UPI) —Two lockets containing grains of dust from Christopher Columbus' remains will be offered for sale at auction here Oct. 10. A spokesman for Sotheby Parke Bernet Gallery estimated the lockets will go for more than $20,000.

The dust was taken from Columbus' tomb in the Dominican Republic in 1877.

The crystal lockets were consigned to Sotheby by Robert L. Roman Sr. of Orange, N.J., a descendant of Columbus biographer John Boyd Thatcher. Thatcher apparently came into possession of the relics while working on the biography, which was published in 1904.

Marin Alternative Opposes Water Bond

Opposition to Marin Municipal Water District's $7.5 million bond issue, Measure E on the November ballot, was voted last night by Marin Alternative.

Vice chairman Ken Howard reported 19 voted for a motion to oppose the measure, four abstained, and none supported the measure. The organization has about 400 members, he said, adding the vote was taken after about two dozen members had left the meeting at the College of Marin.

The vote followed a two-hour debate and question period. Speaking against the measure was Tina Ferris of the Committee to Save Marin. Defending it was David Greenlee of the Marin Builders Exchange. James M. MacPhail Jr., a director of the water district, had been scheduled to defend the measure, but canceled his appearance on Monday.

Tina Ferris argued the measure was part of a larger plan which could result in a huge importation of water. She called instead for recycling and conservation of existing supplies, Howard reported.

Greenlee argued defeat of the measure will force an indefinite extension of the district's moratorium on new hookups, thus continuing severe unemployment in the construction industry, Howard reported.

District director Jack Felson was in the audience, but declined to take a position on the measure, saying it was up to the voters to decide the matter, Howard said.

The vote indicated the members preferred to risk the water shortages that would come if a two-year drought occurred instead of accepting further congestion and pollution they felt more water would mean by permitting growth.

Reagan Vetoes Indian Centers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday vetoed as "not in the taxpayers' best interest" a $1.6 million bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, to establish 20 Indian education centers.

In a veto message, Reagan said most of the proposed services already are available or may be provided in existing local, state and federal government programs.

"To commit the state to a permanent program of this magnitude without determining if the proposed services cannot be provided by other programs would not be in the taxpayers' best interest," Reagan said.

The bill (SB1269) called for creating 20 Indian education centers throughout the state and giving any tribal group or incorporated Indian association the authority to apply to operate the center.

Timber Legislation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Conservationist-supported legislation (AB227) imposing permanent regulations on California's $1 billion-a-year timber industry was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Revolt Erupts Over Tube To Sausalito

A revolt by Marin citizens opposed to a tube between Sausalito and San Francisco erupted last night at a meeting of the citizens advisory panel of the Golden Gate Corridor Study Project.

The panel, dominated in past months by San Franciscans opposed to any transit that would require tunnels in their own neighborhoods, previously voted to study the Sausalito tube over the protests of the few Marin citizens who have been participating in its monthly meetings.

Growing opposition from Sausalito to any planning for such a tube apparently brought out more Marinites than at recent meetings. Anyone who has gone to one of the panel's three last sessions can participate in its voting.

The revolt started with a motion by Alan Conner of Sausalito to abandon all further study of a tube. The debate on his motion was strictly on Marin-San Francisco lines, reported William Liskamm, a consultant to the panel.

When the San Franciscans saw the vote would be close on Conner's motion, they successfully won a motion to table the issue to the next meeting so it could be on the agenda. Liskamm said the time and place of next month's meeting have not been set, but noted it will be in San Francisco.

Last night's session, attended by about 30 persons, was in San Rafael City Hall. The panel alternates its meetings between Marin and San Francisco.

Fund Drive Opened By United Crusade

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The United Bay Area Crusade opened its yearly fund raising drive yesterday with a goal of $17.5 million and $2.19 million already pledged.

Last year the crusade failed by $500,000 to reach its goal of $16 million.

Electoral College Abolishment Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss and Sen. Robert Dole, the former GOP national chairman, called yesterday for abolishing the electoral college system and replacing it with a direct, popular election of the President.

Testifying together at a Senate subcommittee hearing, Strauss and Dole said the time was long overdue for ending the present system. They urged approval of a reform proposal for the direct election of President and vice president.

Dino de Laurentiis is making his American debut.

After some 40 years of producing and directing movies overseas — movies which have gained him accolades in artistic as well as boxoffice terms — "Bitter Rice," "La Strada" "Cabirian Nights," "Barabbas" — for instance — DeLaurentiis has made his first American film and has come to live in the United States with his wife, Silvana Mangano, and his four children, Veronica, Rafaella, Federico and Francesca.

The picture is "The Stone Killer" and it stars Charles Bronson, who has been a de Laurentiis star in other films with only quasi-American backgrounds. He had the chief roles in "The Valachi Papers," and "The Valdez Horses" (a John Sturges western).

DeLaurentiis came to Boston to launch his new film, and brought with his son Federico, 17, who now works with him at moviemaking.

In his somewhat fractured English — his son went to American schools in Rome and speaks better, but not more expressive English than his father who learns his by watching movies — the elder de Laurentiis spoke of violence.

"The Stone Killer" is about the underworld and a particular man who is cold and ruthless. A crime picture with the usual assortment of mayhem and car chase.

"It is the story of one man against the establishment," DeLaurentiis said, bouncing around in his chair like the bundle of energy he is, looking keenly at each of the people around the table.

"Violence," he went on, "is big problem in our society today. Violence is not coming from the movie. It's all around us. Vietnam story is war, is violence. If I want to do so, problem is to try to avoid violence, try to leave everybody in peace . . . if you want to make modern picture today you can't avoid the violence."

His program for the immediate future, however, includes other types of pictures. He will produce for director Ingmar Bergman, a film based on "The Merry Widow" (Barbra Streisand has been suggested for this one, but casting is not yet settled). And he will produce "Casanova" with Federico Fellini directing.

"The Stone Killer" is directed by Englishman Michael Winner who has developed quite a following for his work among some young people.

He will also produce a film from Peter Maas's "Serpico," with Al Pacino in the title role. It's another cop story. "I came here to America," de Laurentiis explained. "I meet Peter Maas. I say, what is your next book?" Maas told him it was "Serpico" and offered him the first 20 pages — all he had written — to read. "I tell him I want to buy it. I read first 20 pages. It's fantastic. I like. I want to buy," explaining that he understood the character completely even in this small a segment of a book still largely unwritten. Mr. Pacino read the same 20 pages and was also sold on it.

All this simply gives point to what is practically a maxim for DeLaurentiis. "When you make important movie the first thing you need is the character. When the character is fantastic the movie is fantastic." And this conflicts not at all with another of his strongly held convictions, that "every picture look like the face of its director." In this he is right in line with today's young people who tend to follow a director's work rather than star vehicles (where such exist now), or film versions of stories, books, plays, etc.

Somehow DeLaurentiis strikes one as a man with his finger on the pulse of the movie audience, even when that pulse is siddenly American rather than Italian.

No Need To Guess, Either A Heart, Spade For Trick

South had to develop one extra spade trick or one extra heart trick out of dummy's long suits. It seemed that he had to guess which suit to tackle first, but there was actually no need to guess.

LOW DIAMOND

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and South played low from the dummy. East won with the king and returned a diamond.

Now South could expect to ruff one club in dummy, could discard a second club on a top heart, but needed some way to get rid of his third club. Clearly, he would have to develop one of dummy's long suits. Which one?

South took the ace of hearts and led another heart to dummy's queen. East discarded a club, and it was therefore clear that the hearts were stacked badly. South glumly discarded a club on the king of hearts, cashed the top spades and ruffed a spade.

SPADES TROUBLESOME

All would have ended well if each opponent held three spades. But the spades broke 4-2, and South could reach dummy only once more — with a club ruff. Down one.

The correct line of play is to tackle the spades first. South takes the ace and king of spades, ruffs a spade, ruffs a club in dummy, and ruffs another spade. This sets up the last spade, and dummy can be reached with a heart.

A BAD BREAK

Now suppose that spades broke badly. South would know this by the time he took dummy's king of spades. He could then switch to hearts, and would still have time to set up a heart if that suit broke no worse than 4-2. In short, he could play for both suits instead of only one.

Special Meeting Set Tonight

The Marin City Community Services District board will meet in special session tonight at 8 o'clock at the district office to complete plans for its "do-it-ourselves" cleanup project.

The district board is leading a drive to beautify Marin City, with immediate emphasis on a cleanup of the central area, and will begin the effort at 10 a.m. Saturday when a volunteer group is to clean up litter.

The board will also review its programs and projects for the fiscal year as budgeted and will hear a report from the Legal Aid Society of Marin.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

SPORTS GREAT — Avery Brundage will celebrate his 86th birthday tomorrow. This longtime chairman of the United States Olympic Committee was an athlete himself as a youth. Excelling in track and basketball, he competed in the 1912 Olympics at Stockholm. Then for three years out of five (1914, 1916 and 1918) he was named the all-around amateur champion of the United States. Always a strong believer that the amateur plays not for financial gain, he also felt the international games ought not to be involved in politics. As a consequence, he was criticized for approving Berlin as the site for the 1936 games because Hitler was then in power. He recently married a 37-year-old princess, saying, "I'm young for my age."

Book Dealers Suing Tax Firm

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A Korean couple who are wholesale book dealers has filed a $1.3 million damage suit against the nationwide tax preparation firm of H&R Block.

William H. and Okbun Golden Jr. claimed the firm incorrectly prepared their 1970 income tax return. The suit asserts Block showed they had experienced a $26,157 loss while the Internal Revenue Service later contended the company grossed a $555,425 profit.

Attorney John J. Mullane Jr., representing the plaintiffs, said yesterday the Goldens, formerly of Seoul and Boston, had their 1970 income tax return prepared by a H&R Block office in San Francisco.

$100 Taken From Market Register

Thieves took $100 from a cash register Tuesday at Madera Foods in Corte Madera, according to the store's owner, police said.

Guido J. Molinari told police four persons standing in one check out line distracted the checker and took the cash from the register of another checkout line. He said the four fled in a 1965 blue sedan.

McCarthy Wants To Return To House

ST. PAUL, Minn (UPI) — Former Congressman Eugene J. McCarthy wants to return to the U.S. House of Representatives to help reform it, but he stopped short of announcing his candicacy for Minnesota's 6th District yesterday. He told the St. Paul Dispatch only that he was "seriously condidering" making the race.

"I have long thought that the House had to be made into a somewhat more effective and committed political instrument, that something comparable to Britain's Parliament was needed," McCarthy, 55, who served 10 years in the House before being elected to the Senate, told the Dispatch in a telephone interview from Washington.

Space Hardware To Benefit Earthlings

By DAVID F. SALISBURY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Safer bumpers — with shock absorbers designed for landing on the moon — are in our cars' future.

For residents in tornado-prone areas an electronic box soon will be available that converts a television set into a storm-warning device.

These are just two of hundreds of applications being found in today's marketplace for hardware and ideas from the U.S. space program.

In a time of growing concern about the decline of invention in U.S. industry, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has been pursuing an "aggressive program" to stimulate companies and individuals to use as many of the bits and pieces of space program technology as possible.

When the space agency was established, Congress gave it explicit power to take out patents on its ideas and inventions and grant licenses to companies interested in using them. NASA was the first government agency to have this power.

Previously, anyone could use inventions and designs developed within the government. However, very few were used.

So NASA set regulations governing licensing of designs developed by its contractors or in their laboratories.

Despite all its efforts, however, in 1972 NASA still had many of its inventions which it thought had potential sitting around gathering dust.

After intensive studies, NASA patent officers decided the problem was the policy of granting licenses to more than one organization.

"Businessmen just were not interested in taking out nonexclusive patents," explains Gayle Parker, an attorney from NASA's patent-licensing program. As a result, in 1972 they changed their policy and began issuing licenses to single companies.

NASA also began charging fees. It discovered that bankers would not lend money to people with a license unless there was a royalty involved. Evidently the bankers felt a free license was unbusinesslike. Royalties also were started because in reviewing their files, NASA officials discovered that those people who were unwilling to put up their own money seldom made use of the invention.

"We're not in it for the money," emphasizes Herbert Holly, head of the Technology Utilization office. "Our inventions were developed at the American citizen's expense, and we are trying to use them in a way that will best improve the quality of American life."

Money from these licenses goes back to the general treasury and is not used to bolster NASA's declining budget.

Patents and licensing are only one part of NASA's efforts to milk as much benefit out of the $41-billion space program as possible. The agency also has set up six regional research-application centers. These centers are university-based organizations that search through the massive NASA files and other government-developed technologies looking for solutions to a company's specific technical problems.

Roller bearings that roll longer, highway guard rails that absorb much of the energy of an automobile out of control, better methods for lifting thousand-pound steel beams, an antifogging chemical that can be used on a skier's goggles or a motorcyclist's visor, a safer life raft . . . these are a few more of the products that began with ideas or hardware developed in the space program.

So the space agency, in a series of special presentations, is touring the country, trying to find and interest individuals who might become champions of products based on space technology.

Suit Will Test Academy Status

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal court here has been asked to open the doors of the Navy and Air Force academies to make way for midshipwomen and airwomen.

The Center for Women's Policy Studies filed a class action suit in U.S. District Court yesterday challenging the requirement that applicants for the elite officer-training academies be men.

The suit was filed on behalf of Coralie S. Cross of Danville, Calif., who is seeking admission to the Naval Academy, and Jolene Ann Schwab of Fremont, Calif., who would like to become an Air Force officer.

Bubble Baths Being Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission said today it is investigating the bubble bath business, and urged any consumers who have suffered adverse reactions to let it know.

Some possible side effects of bubble baths on which the agency said it is seeking information are skin rashes, irritations and infections.

"Any persons having information that may be helpful to the investigation are urged to contact their nearest regional office of the FTC," the agency said.

Regional offices are located in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Kansas City, Mo., Los Angeles, New York City, San Francisco, Seattle and Washington, D.C.

MIGRANT HOUSEBOAT — Chased from Harbor Cove in Strawberry by land-dweller's protests, a huge old barge that houses about a dozen men, women, children and dogs lies beached at the A. G. Schoonmaker property in Sausalito. Schoonmaker vice president, John Middleton (center) yesterday told the houseboat's leaders Rusty Howard (left) and Salty Forest (right) they could have "two or three days" to repair their home's leaking hull.

Park Site Approved For A Swim Center

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The best location for an Olympic-sized swimming pool and related facilities is at the North Bay Front Park, the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission decided yesterday.

The commission's decision came at the urging of parks director Pierre W. Joske and his staff, who said it would be too costly to build the swim center near the fairgrounds at Civic Center.

The commission's recommendation will be considered Tuesday by county supervisors, who put the swimming pool in limbo last June when they asked that sites other than the North Bay Park be considered.

A report from the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, architects for the 140-acre Civic Center site, is only lukewarm to the pool's placement there, Joske said.

His park planner, Don Rolph, said it would cost at least $270,000 more to build the swimming center at Civic Center than at the nearby North Bay Park.

The two major factors, Rolph said, are soil and wind differences.

To build at Civic Center would mean creating a large-man-made hill to block the wind and costly construction techniques because of bay mud.

At the North Bay Park, located north of Las Gallinas Creek, a natural hill exists to break the wind and the subsurface is bedrock — easier and cheaper to build on, he said.

The Wright foundation report estimates the total cost of the swim center, if located at Civic Center, at about $1.8 million $900,000 of that to enclose the center and provide a sliding glass roof.

Rolph said the $900,000 amount probably could be reduced if built at the North Bay Park because the building would not have to follow the architectural design used at Civic Center. He stressed that enclosing the swim complex is optional.

Other costs would remain about the same for the two sites, he said. The report lists $100,000 for paved parking, $225,000 for a 50-meter Olympic pool, $60,000 for a diving pool, $50,000 for a wading pool, $150,000 for a bath house and $130,000 for other odds and ends.

Joske, in urging endorsement of the swim complex at the new park, told commissioners "It's a better site because it was selected for this purpose."

He said it would be more compatible with surrounding activities such as the proposed tennis center, equestrian area, playfields and boating.

He said architects have been tentatively selected to design the complex and could begin on short notice after approval of a master plan by county supervisors. The master plan is expected later this year.

Joske later told the Independent-Journal that he estimates at least two years before the start of the project, if approved, and development in stages over another eight years.

Another proposed location, the defunct Marin Town and Country Club in Fairfax, was dropped from consideration with little discussion.

Commissioner Merritt A. Robinson, who toured the facility, said the club has prime weather conditions and is large enough but its pools and other facilities are deteriorating and access would be through already clogged streets.

Commissioner Dorothy Olson spoke in support of the Fairfax location, saying it should be given greater consideration.

Mugs With $3 Bill Face Are Busted

Hundreds of imported coffee mugs bearing a facsimile $3 bill graced by the face of President Richard M. Nixon have been seized from a San Rafael firm and destroyed, the U.S. Secret Service said yesterday.

A federal agent said today about 2,000 of the mugs were seized from the General Housewares, Giftwares Group at 632 Irwin Street because of their resemblance to the image of a Federal Reserve Note, and not because of Nixon's likeness on a $3 bill.

"It could have been Charley Chan's mug on that note," said W. T. McIntyre of Novato, assistant agent in charge of the Secret Service in San Francisco. "There is no law against the use of a president's picture. It's the counterfeiting we're concerned about," he said.

McIntyre, who said he could see no humor in the situation, said the mugs represented a "serious matter" since they violated federal currency laws regulating "similitude," or resemblance in any way to genuine greenbacks.

"No reproduction in similitude of genuine currency in part or portion can be made," McIntyre explained, saying the image on the coffee mugs contained an "exact replica of the U.S. Seal."

It made no difference that the duplicated federal note was emblazoned on a coffee mug and virtually unpassable, was of a phony $3 denomination, or contained the image of Nixon where George Washington should have been, the agent said.

Even one corner of a bill, if "reproduced in similitude, is usually deemed a violation, according to McIntyre.

He said the seizure in San Rafael took place about two weeks ago, but federal authorities have kept a lid on the confiscation because the case is "not a matter of public record" since the U.S. Attorney's office in San Francisco has declined to prosecute.

"This doesn't sound like the most serious violation I've ever heard of," said U.S. Attorney James Browning.

Gordon Erickson, corporate counsel of General Housewares, said from the firm's headquarters in Hyannis, Mass., that the company has decided not to seek damages in court "because there wasn't enough money involved."

"I personally don't think we violated any law," said Erickson, "but there are some things that economically you can't fight, like the government."

Meanwhile, a secretary in General Houseware's San Rafael office declined comment on the matter, saying only that the mugs were "gone" and describing the matter as "not that important."

She told an interested buyer that shipments of the mugs had been distributed to local stores like Macy's and the Emporium before the seizure, but both stores today said none were available.

The mugs were made in Japan.

More Troubles For Big Houseboat

One of the huge houseboats that raised Strawberry residents' wrath when it visited Harbor Cove last week, moved yesterday to the beach at the A. G. Schoonmaker property in Sausalito.

"They were told to leave," reported John Middleton, Schoonmaker vice president. "But they couldn't very well leave if they couldn't float."

The houseboat spokesmen told Middleton they only wanted two or three days to patch holes in their leaky hull.

"Worms love the barge ... there're at least three different kinds" of borers chomping on the fir timbers of the World War II relic, explained red-bearded Salty Forest, his long blue robe flapping in the breeze.

"Don't make it months," warned Middleton.

"I'm not going to take any legal action until I see whether they're keeping their promise," he later told the Independent-Journal.

Rusty Howard, another of the houseboat's crew, said the two families aboard, together with friends, are striving to make the bulky craft into "a tool" to demolish the controversial drydocks marooned in Richardson Bay and other salvage projects "that none of the big companies want to do."

"It's an experiment ... I'm into architecture" and want to offer the salvage materials to persons who want to build low-cost housing on the water, Howard claimed.

"Our generation inherited the leftovers from the war, the barges and the drydocks," Forest added. He gestured at their home. "This was surplus for a few hundred (dollars). "Since then we've put thousands into it."

Both Howard and Forest decried what they said was a trend to mass-produced look-alike houseboats "that won't hold up 10 years" and complained that water-dwellers were subject to regulation by "14 different agencies."

They suggested that residents of the Arquez, Kappas and Tellus houseboat colonies — who defended their homes from sheriff's deputies in the celebrated "houseboat war" in 1969 — incorporate a new city to solve their new problems.

"We arrived after all that," they stressed, and "we like everybody'd like to be in a clean environment with sewer hookups and all that."

Tennis Club Insurance Of $1 Million Required

A newly formed tennis club in Corte Madera and Larkspur must have $1 million in damage and liability insurance to use town park tennis courts one morning a week the town's park and recreation commission decided last night.

Commissioners refused to reduce the insurance requirement to $100,000 as requested by the club but said the private club could use the public courts on a three-month trial basis if they post the $1 million insurance.

Alice Baumsteiger, spokesman for the group of 25 women, said she was unsure if the group would increase dues to pay the insurance or seek other courts.

The Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission also:

PIT — Concurred with public works director Arthur N. Morrison's plan for fire pit installation at town park. Morrison suggested the work be done in three phases including fire pit, benches and landscaping in the park but a time frame for the work will not be considered until the commission's next meeting.

REVENUE — Was told by Jacqueline A. Branch, town recreation director, that $12,200 in revenue sharing funds had been earmarked for park and recreation by the town council. Uses will be $5,200 for the tiny tot area in town park, $4,000 for development of a mini-park on El Camino Drive and $3,000 for development of a play area at the Granada tennis courts.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to its next regular meeting Oct. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in town hall.

Meeting Will Deal With Open Space

Sausalito planning commissioners will discuss the open space element of the city's general plan during a special meeting at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

Items to be discussed will range from methods of preserving commercial fishing operations on the waterfront to recommendations on how to maintain scenic views, parks and trails in the community, according to Planning Director Herb Case.

Former Prisoners Cleared By Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Navy Secretary John W. Warner announced today that charges of prison camp misconduct against two former prisoners of war have been dismissed despite sufficient evidence to warrant legal proceedings.

Instead of ordering a court martial, Warner publicly censured Marine Lt. Col. Edison W. Miller, 41, of Tustin, Calif., and Navy Capt. Walter E. Wilber, 43, of Columbia Crossroads, Pa., "for failing to meet the standards expected of officers" during their imprisonment in North Vietnam.

Crafts Center Is Backed By Cotati Board

Plans for an arts and crafts center were endorsed last night by the Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission.

Commission chairman Lee Gray said commissioners approved plans by Mrs. William Rosselli to use her vacant lot in the 8000 block of Old Redwood Highway for weekend arts and crafts shows.

Mrs. Gray said local artists have few places to display their wares and could use the center on a regular basis.

If plans are also approved by the planning commission and city council, Mrs. Gray said the center could be opened early in December and combined with a Christmas music concert at Plaza Park.

Median Strip Plan Approved In Sausalito

Plans to build a median strip that will include landscaping and street lights from Coloma Street to the north city limits were approved last night by the Sausalito Community Appearances Advisory Board.

The project, the first phase of a plan to construct a median divider from Nevada Street to the north city limits, will cost $35,000. Work is expected to begin next spring, according to Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works.

Board members also approved landscaping plans and architectural design by Terra Iyama to build a duplex on Marion Street.

SELLING MARIN SINCE 1919

GET OUT OF TOWN. Everyone loves the country and this is your chance. It's not way out, yet has the feeling of a little ranch with the fruit trees, playhouse and private queen patio. 3 bdrms., dining room plus full guest house or big rumpus room. Lots of extras. Don't pay another month's rent. See this Novato home today. $33,500.

DIG THIS, DAD. This pad is really "with it" — everything a young couple needs or wants — no "squareville's" nonsense, just a solid beat. Fairfax hillside, extra large lot with view. A cottage with 2 bdrms. upstairs and a studio unit downstairs for income. It's legal — non conforming. Ideal for organic garden and creative instincts. Eves. 456-5854. $34,950.

2 MINUTES WALK! This San Rafael home is near everything, schools, shopping, churches, "convenience" is its middle name. 2 bdrms., remodeled kitchen, new carpeting and drapes. There's a level yard, big fireplace and room to expand downstairs. Property is zoned R-3. Eves. 883-6727. $39,500.

GIVE THE CAR AWAY. You won't need a car when you live here! Near downtown San Rafael, on choice Curtis Ave. Walk a short block or 2 and SAVE all that monthly car expense. LOOK WHAT ELSE YOU GET — great neighbors, terraced yard with fruit trees, polished hardwood floors, spacious dining room, breakfast room, 2 bdrms., and basement with expansion possibilities. Eves. 883-6727. $39,950.

You'll love the trees growing right up thru the decks. Be it's first owner. Exclusive. $61,000.

FOUR STARS★★★★. Like a great movie this is a rare "hit" with one great feature after another! Just look:
- Downtown Ross, level property.
- 3 bdrms., 2 baths and dining room.
- Circular driveway
- Quiet woods — it's breathtaking!

$69,500

THIS BEAUTY ISN'T SKIN DEEP. The man who built this home was fussy, you can tell by its handsome exterior. He was fussy about interior details, too. For example, there's a reverse floor plan with attractive entry, dining room, family room with wet bar, 3 bdrms., and 2 baths, lovely outlook to trees and private covered patio. Marinda Oaks special! Exclusive. Eves. 456-5854. $49,500.

AN EXCEPTIONAL NEIGHBORHOOD. You'll love to live in this fine Glenwood area, so will your children — they'll find their playmates convenient as well — near schools. 3 bdrms., 2 baths, dining room and terrific kitchen. It's professionally landscaped with even a child's dollhouse and a rose garden. Everything spotless and everything outstanding. Eves. 883-6727. $54,500.

WHAT A GIFT. Just imaging the thrills when your family opens the door of this "surprise package." 4 bdrms., 2 baths — immaculate home. Beautiful entry. Lush carpeting thruout, covered cabana looking out to green belt area. Superb family room and nice landscaping with real privacy. A magazine picture home in popular Loma Verde. Eves. 454-3434. $52,950.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Brain Wave Test Can Detect Case Of Abdominal Epilepsy

S.S. writes: "What is abdominal epilepsy? My young son develops abdominal cramping that seldom lasts longer than a few minutes. Pain is severe enough to make him cry and vomit. During and for a few moments after the attack he seems to be confused, but soon falls asleep and feels well upon awakening. He was X-rayed for ulcers, but nothing was found.

"Our doctor now wants to do a brain wave test because of the possibility that he has abdominal epilepsy. We have never heard of this disorder."

THIS IS a rare condition, and not many people have heard about it. The diagnosis is made with the electroencephalograph, which registers the brain waves. The disorder is also treated with diphenyldantoin, a drug that controls epileptic seizures. Most of the victims are children, and the attacks are brief and occur periodically.

Abdominal epilepsy is difficult to explain, except that abdominal distress may precede the convulsion in a person with grand mal epilepsy. This symptom is known as a visceral aura, and is often described as a rising sensation in the abdomen. It may be associated with nausea, vomiting, and increased salivation. The typical seizure, in which the person loses consciousness and has a convulsion follows.

A CHILD with abdominal epilepsy apparently has the aura, but not the convulsion. The abdominal pain is the only sign of an electrical storm somewhere in the brain. This explains why the electroencephalogram is usually abnormal. Fortunately, anticonvulsant drugs bring relief.

If the brain wave tests are normal, there is a possibility that this child has a somewhat related condition known as abdominal migraine. In this disorder, recurrent episodes of abdominal pain last much longer and often are associated with headaches and vomiting.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

LIPOMA ON BACK

Mrs. V. writes: I'm about 60 pounds overweight and have a lipoma on the back. If I lost some weight would the tumor decrease in size?

REPLY

It may get smaller, but it will not disappear.

'THIN BLOOD'

N.P. writes: Will keeping the blood thin help prevent a second heart attack?

REPLY

Yes, but not in all instances. Heart attacks have occurred during use of an anticoagulant that is supposed to prevent the blood from clotting.

HE'S FORGETFUL

A reader writes: I'm an elderly man who is very forgetful. But when in bed, I remember many things. Do you think the circulation to the brain is better when lying down?

REPLY

Not as a rule. But the answer depends upon whether your thoughts at night are on past events, which most elderly persons remember well. Recent events, such as what happened yesterday or a few hours ago, are forgotten. With fewer distractions at bedtime, these events are recalled more easily than during the hustle and bustle of the day.

GALLBLADDER

D. S. writes: Can a diseased gallbladder affect the liver?

REPLY

This happens occasionally when the infection spreads to the bile ducts and thence to the liver.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, Sept. 27, the 270th day of 1973 with 95 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

American patriot Samuel Adams was born Sept. 27, 1722.

On this day in history:

In 1825, in England, George Stephenson operated the first locomotive to pull a passenger train.

In 1939, after 19 days of resisting heavy air raids and artillery bombardment, the heroic defenders of Warsaw, Poland, surrendered to the German Nazis.

In 1904, Germany, Italy and Japan signed a 10-year mutual aid pact, forming the Axis powers arrayed against the Allies in World War II.

In 1961, Syria broke away from the United Arab Republic in a revolt led by army officers.

A thought for the day: American cartoonist Bill Mauldin said, "Look into an infantryman's eyes and you will tell how much war he has seen."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, heavy air pollution.

Smoke particles, significant air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, significant air pollution.

San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

The play will also be presented Saturday, Oct. 5, 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20, all at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

Politicians Low In Public Esteem

SEATTLE (UPI) — Pollster Louis Harris says many Americans are convinced that the politicians who preach most loudly about restoring law and order and complain about softheaded judges who mollycoddle criminals "as often as not turn out to violate the law themselves when they attain high office."

Harris said that Americans, 72 per cent of them, want serious efforts to rehabilitate criminals, coupled with serious efforts to prosecute organized crime.

He told a group of Washington state legislators yesterday that businessmen who made illegal campaign contributions are viewed as harmful elements by 81 per cent and vigilante groups such as the Ku Klux Klan are considered by 79 per cent, a 20 per cent increase over a few years ago.

Seventy-eight per cent of Americans believe the generals who ordered secret bombings are among the harmful elements in American society, according to Harris.

Harris cited the statistics to make the point that "by 1976 it would be wrong to think of voters as having 12-year-old mentalities." Harris said more of the public will have interests akin to those of the college educated public of a generation before.

And politicians who say that people are tired of the Senate Watergate hearings have not gotten the point, Harris said.

"The people want action, not more disclosures," he said.

Law and order has declined as an issue, meanwhile, but not because crime is down. It's declined as an issue because politicians haven't been able to deliver on promises to clear the streets of criminals—and the crime rate is still up.

Soviets Let Four Jews Emigrate

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union, in an apparent gesture to U.S. congressmen opposing trade concessions, has reversed itself and granted exit visas to four militant Jews, it was disclosed today.

Jewish sources said the four, who had previously been denied permission to emigrate, were among the most vocal of Soviet citizens trying to go to Israel.

Several of the 2,000 Soviet Jews who packed Moscow's central synagogue to celebrate Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, said they thought Russia granted the visas this week to dampen U.S. opposition to trade concessions.

Arkady A. Shpilberg, a 35-year-old Latvian Jew arrested Sunday for staging a one-man protest outside Communist Party headquarters in Moscow, was among the four given permission to leave, the Jewish sources said.

Shpilberg, who had carried a sign reading "Let me go to my family in Israel," was taken under police guard Monday to Riga where he was expected to be jailed for two weeks on charges of hooliganism, friends said.

Instead, he was called into the Riga passport office yesterday and given a visa to join his wife and child who had left for Israel two months ago, the sources said.

The sources said other Jews to get visas this week were journalist Kirill Khenkin, mathematician Viktor Mash and Nathan Feingold, a former cybernetics engineer-turned-artist.

No Restriction Likely Yet On Two Vitamins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vitamins A and D in high concentration doses will probably continue to be available without a prescription for another year despite a federal court decision upholding the government's plan to restrict their sales, a vitamin industry spokesman said today.

William T. Thompson, president of the Council for Responsible Nutrition, said he based his estimate on the size of existing stocks of the two nutrients which are not affected by the new Food and Drug Administration (FDA) rule which goes into effect next Monday.

The FDA regulation —upheld by U.S. District Judge Marvin E. Frankel in New York Wednesday —says that all Vitamins A and D in superdose sizes manufactured after next Monday must be labeled for prescription sale only.

Dodgers Cleared In Death Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Superior Court jury yesterday absolved the Los Angeles Dodgers of liability in the death of a 14-year-old boy who died after being hit on the head by a batted baseball during a game on May 16, 1970.

The parents of Alan David Fish sought $1 million damages in the negligence suit.

Dr. Glen E. Jones, the physician on duty at Dodger Stadium at the time of the incident, also was ruled innocent.

First aid attendants at the stadium said Alan appeared fine after being struck by the ball.

On the way to the car after the game, however, he began crying and walking in circles. He was hospitalized and died four days later.

Two Rabid Skunks Are Found

Two more rabid skunks have been found in widely separated areas of the county, bringing Marin's total of known rabid animals to 33 so far this year.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, public health officer, said one skunk was observed Sept. 18 running in circles in a field near the Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo. It was dispatched by county humane society officers.

The other skunk was found dying Sept. 21 in the bed of Walker Creek near Marshall. It was killed by David Russell of Berkeley and turned over to the humane society.

State tests of the brains found both animals were rabid. There is no known animal or human exposure to either skunk.

Brush Fire Fight

MOORPARK (UPI) —Six aerial tankers began fire-retardant drops today on a raging brush fire in the Santa Monica mountains which already had charred more than 11,000 acres.

Coffee Calms Down Restless Children

CHICAGO (UPI) —Coffee may be better, and a lot less expensive, than drugs in calming restless hyperkinetic children, the American Medical Association reports.

Hyperkinetic children are constantly moving aimlessly about, unable to sit still in class or concentrate on school work. The AMA estimates four out of every 100 school children are so affected.

Most are treated with methylphenidate or amphetamine, drugs which are stimulants for adults but for unknown reasons have a calming effect on hyperkinetic children. Drug side effects can include insomnia, loss of appetite and abdominal pain.

Dr. Robert C. Schnackenberg, chief of the Child and Adolescent service at William S. Hall Psychiatric Institute, Columbia, S.C., said he studied the use of coffee instead of drugs for six months and concluded children were slightly more calm with coffee and had no traceable side effects.

Writing in the American Journal of Psychiatry, Schnackenberg said he conducted pilot tests on 11 children and asked their teachers to rate them in hyperkinetic behavior on a scientific scale.

At first the children were given no drugs, then they were placed on methylphenidate and finally on two cups of coffee, one at breakfast and one at lunch daily.

"While the youngsters were off drugs their behavior rating scores, as expected, were in the hyperkinetic range," Schnackenberg reported. "But they dropped to normal while the children were on drugs and on coffee; in fact, the coffee score was slightly better.

"The annoying side effects disappeared and no side effects appeared that could be traced to coffee."

Schnackenberg said the coffee treatment costs only $10 a year compared to about $100 for the drugs.

Auto Stolen

David Marshall, 209 Jeffrey Drive, Petaluma, told police his 1964 Chevrolet was stolen yesterday while parked at his home. It bore license EDL 850.

West Point Plebe Quits Over Hazing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Fairfax, Va., youth has charged that intensive hazing by upper classmen forced him to resign his commission at West Point, the Washington Star-News reported today.

Mark Brown, 18, claimed that while recuperating from acute dehydration this month, he was kept awake by hazers and allowed only a minimal amount of food during a three-month period.

He told the Star-News that because of the vigorous hazing he endured after being released from the military academy hospital, he suffered a relapse and was advised to leave the school for health reasons.

The Star-News quoted Lt. Col. Thomas Garigan, public information officer for West Point, as saying: "We are still a mean bunch of bastards. We never promised him a rose garden."

Garigan also told the Star-News he didn't believe Brown understood what constituted hazing and that the academy would make sure anyone "in need of chewing out" gets it.

Brown was sworn in as a cadet July 2 and underwent the academy's military indoctrination program at Lake Frederick, N. Y., 18 miles from West Point.

He said that after a march from Lake Frederick to the campus and two days of parades and formations, he collapsed on Aug. 30 and was hospitalized for dehydration. According to the youth's account, he was released from the hospital on Sept. 5 and suffered the relapse six days later.

Brown returned to his suburban Washington home on Sept. 14.

He told the Star-News: "The problem with the academy is that upper classmen have become egomaniacs and once a plebe has gone through the hazing, he seems to say the next year that he is going to give what he got."

Engineers Soften Stand On Bolinas Sewage Ponds

State engineers have backed off from their stand that the Bolinas sewage ponds are designed twice as large as necessary, but they still feel the system is "over-designed," directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utilities District were told last night.

Director Paul D. Kayfetz summarized for directors and an audience of about 25 persons a meeting of representatives of both the state and regional Water Quality Control Board, the district engineering firm of Kirker, Chapman and Associates, district sewage consultant, William J. Oswald, and board member William E. Niman and himself.

According to Kayfetz the following conclusions were reached:

That James Pancraz, state board representative who would authorize grants for the system, is not adamant in refusing to accept the proposed $1.6 million plan but wants alternative proposals.

That state engineers have revised their estimates of the needed pond sizes upward after learning that water from two springs on a downward slope must be pumped back into the ponds for treatment in order to insure against pollution from drainage.

That a deadline of June 30, 1974, must be met for all design approvals and paperwork or the grants will be lost.

Kayfetz reported a lengthy argument over whether the present number of five ponds should be reduced to four, in which case nearly all of the 95-acre Sharon property would be needed for spray irrigation field and drainage protection, or the number of ponds should be increased to seven, with no provisions for spray irrigation.

He said Oswald, a professor of sanitary engineering on whose concept the system is based, opposed reducing the number of ponds and will present further arguments to the state representatives.

Kayfetz also learned, he said, that the state will not necessarily fund 87.5 per cent of the entire system, but only those items deemed to be "justifiable cost." For example, he said, the state representatives presently believe they should authorize payments on only three and one half of the five ponds now proposed.

Payments on land and equipment for monitoring the springs might be sticky, but funds are available, he said, for such items as the laboratory building, most of the landscaping, and irrigation fields and equipment included in a final system.

Some in the audience suggested that if the springs on the Sharon property made purchase of the full 95 acres necessary, the board should consider looking for another site.

Both Kayfetz and Niman replied that it would be impossible to find another property, make the necessary geological tests, and design a system within the time remaining until the June 30 deadline.

Kayfetz also quoted one state man as saying almost without exception the past year final bids on projects by contractors have been approximately double the figures in the original feasibility studies made by engineers.

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District board also:

ROAD WORK — Promised to lend equipment to volunteers who will assemble Wednesday at 8 a.m. at the district office on Elm Road and launch a program of road repair to be undertaken that day and the following Saturday and Sunday.

FLOODING — Was told repairs of the road to Arroyo Honda Dam is being hindered by flooding at the dam resulting from early rains.

Guilty Verdict Is Returned In Assault Case

A Santa Venetia man was found guilty yesterday of assaulting a 25-year-old Mill Valley social worker with a knife April 2.

A jury in the court of Superior Judge David Menary Jr. returned the verdict against Craig Clayton Nance, 28, after a two-day trial. Menary set sentencing for Oct. 29.

Nance, a roofer, originally was charged with assault with intent to commit rape but he was bound over to superior court on the assault with a deadly weapon charge after Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas ruled the evidence did not support the original count.

The victim testified Nance picked her up hitchhiking, threatened her with a knife, then took her to his home. She enlisted the help of Nance's roommates, who drove her to San Rafael police.

Best In West Soccer Match

A good sized crowd is expected at San Rafael High School's field Oct. 11 when University of San Francisco's soccer team takes on UCLA in a battle of two of the top teams on the West Coast.

According to Bob Braghetta of the sponsoring Marin Junior Soccer Association, this game could decide the National Collegiate Athletic Assoiation (NCAA) tournament representative from the West Coast. And he may well be right.

UCLA made it all the way to the NCAA finals last year before losing to University of St. Louis and this year is currently ranked ninth in the country after winning its first three games. USF hopes to beat out the Bruins for the NCAA berth and is presently ranked sixth. Among the victories on USF's 3-0 record is a 3-0 win over Westmont College of Santa Barbara, National Association of Independent Colleges (NAIC) champion of last year.

The Dons of USF have waited a year for this rematch with the Bruins who decisioned them last year, 2-1, on their way to the NCAA tournament. It should be some soccer show.

REUNION TIME for the Northern California Giants Boosters who made the trip to Japan in 1970 will be Oct. 15, 6 p.m. at Rubini's restaurant in Fairfax. Movies (rated G) of the trip, including highlights of the Giants' games in Tokyo and the boosters' visit to the Japanese World's Fair, will be shown. Reservations can be made by calling Rubini's.

THE ART OF BARE toe kicking is not dead, even though Gordon Tovani of San Rafael has retired from the antics. Navy freshman Steve Dykes cuts off the top part of his kicking shoe at the crease — sole included — to free his toes. He scored 13 points against VMI and then said, "I've tried everything else, and this is the only thing that works."

RAY LEACH OF NOVATO is trying again for his Professional Golfers Association playing card to get into the bigtime of golf. Leach missed his qualifying try last year and instead played on satellite tours in Southern California. Yesterday, he shot 290 in four rounds to survive a 293 cut, enabling him to attend the upcoming PGA school in Florida. The qualifying play was held on the par-72 Canyon Crest Country Club course in Riverside.

GARY KASPRZAK, former star lineman for Redwood High, is now teaching sixth grade and working as an assistant football coach at a high school in Farmington, Conn. A graduate of Redwood in 1969, he got a football scholarship to Washington State but injured his knee during his freshman year. He gave up football but kept with the books and earned his B.A. in education.

MILT SCHWARTZ, San Rafael furniture man, knows a bargain when he sees one. At Tuesday night's Marin County Chapter, Ducks Unlimited dinner, Milt made a bid of $650 for a gorgeous, hand-crafted shotgun. But Milt, who is lucky to go duck hunting once a year, made his one bid on a lark. It wasn't so funny when that bid stood up. But the story had a happy ending. He was able to sell the gun to one of the serious bidders — for $725.

THE 49ERS OBTAINING wide receiver Dan Abramowicz from the New Orleans Saints was outstanding, but the surprise is how little the Niners had to give up. From one of my spies, I was told San Francisco gave up No. 4 draft choices in 1974 and '75. If that's true, the deal was a steal.

BUC CAUGHT IN BIG SQUEEZE

Philadelphia Phils' catcher Bob Boone tagged out the Pirates' Richie Hebner in the third inning last night in Pittsburgh on an attempted squeeze play. Phils' pitcher Darrell Brandon fielded a bunt and threw out Hebner at the plate who was attempting to score from third on the third inning play. Umpire Bruce Froemming made the call. The Pirates won 13-2 to move within one-half game of the lead in the torrid National League East race. See baseball story, page 36.

Chamberlain Kindles Controversial Flame

Laker Star Jumps To ABA Team

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Wilt Chamberlain, one of the dominant forces in pro basketball since his entry into the NBA 15 years ago, entered perhaps the most controversial phase of his career yesterday when he jumped to the San Diego Conquistadors of the rival American Basketball Association.

Signed for three years as a player-coach, Chamberlain brushed aside possible legal repercussions from the Los Angeles Lakers. He said he would play 10 years more if his mind and body permitted and hoped to model his career after University of South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire.

"I won't 'handle' the players," he said. "I believe you handle horses and animals and work with men. I admire the way McGuire is able to work with men."

Lakers General Manager Pete Newell said he hopes Chamberlain has every success as a coach, but Los Angeles will take "all necessary steps" to keep him from playing for San Diego.

"The Lakers legal position is quite clear," he said. "Chamberlain has a binding contract with the Lakers for the 1973-74 season and the Lakers will take all necessary steps to prevent him from playing with any other club than the Lakers."

Chamberlain said he phoned Lakers' owner Jack Kent Cooke in New York Tuesday night to tell him he would not be returning to Los Angeles. ,

He said no repercussions were discussed.

"He probably thought I was after a better contract," Chamberlain said.

Chamberlain's attorney, Cy Goldberg, said he could not comment until legal action had been taken.

"We're here to play," he said. "In any case they could not prevent Wilt from coaching."

Goldberg admitted the only California case of this type, involving Golden State's Rick Barry, was settled against the player.

"But there have been many cases elsewhere since," he said, "and the trend has been away from bondage. California has a reputation for setting the way."

Chamberlain succeeds K.C. Jones, who went to coach the Capital Bullets. Stan Albeck has been acting coach for San Diego and will remain with the club in some capacity, according to owner Leonard Bloom.

Chamberlain said he will join the Q's in seven or eight days, after he finishes some personal commitments.

San Rafael Gets Harrier Victory

San Rafael High School's varsity cross country team served notice it had plans to dethrone kingpin Redwood when the Bulldog runners outscored Redwood, 25-30, yesterday in a double duel meet to start the 1973 Marin County Athletic League season.

In the double meet, San Rafael also defeated Drake, 15-48, while Redwood whipped Drake, 15-48.

Although Redwood's Kevin Glasner set a course record in 14:14 and teammate Dave Brainerd was third, San Rafael runners took five of the top eight places and that was decisive. Glasner's time over the 2.6-mile Lagunitas Lake course erased the 1972 record of 14:31 set by Redwood's Pete Sweeney.

The first three runners all bettered the record, with San Rafael's Ray Green clocking 14:16 and Brainerd 14:30. San Rafael's Tom Stibich was fourth, 14:36 and Tom O'Reilly fifth, 14:43.

In frosh-soph competition, San Rafael's Stu Roberts set a 1.9-mile course record of 10:49, breaking the 1972 record of Redwood's Augie Lewis, 11:14, as San Rafael defeated Redwood, 24-31, and Drake, 15-48. In the other dual meet, Redwood defeated Drake, 15-48. San Rafael runners took three of the first four places in handing Redwood its first loss in two years.

Wendy Severinghaus of Redwood was first, 14:11, and Laurie Scharninghausen of San Rafael second, 14:24 in the girls' varsity meet. Dual meet scores: Drake 29, San Rafael 30; Redwood 25, Drake 41; and Redwood 25, San Rafael 32.

In another double duel meet, held on Tamalpais' 3-mile course in the Northridge area of Mill Valley, Tam took most of the top honors.

In Varsity the scores were Tam 20, Terra Linda 39; Tam 16, San Marin 43; Terra Linda 25, San Marin 33. Individual results: 1. Kim Baez, Tamalpais, 16:59. 2. Tom Altamirand, Terra Linda, 17:31. 3. Steve Locey, Tamalpais, 17:33. 4. Rhett Wilkes, Tamalpais, 18:24. 5. Peter Simpson, Tamalpais, 18:26.

Aran Collier of Tam won the frosh-soph meet with a fine time of 10:12 over a two-mile course and Tam won twice since San Marin and Terra Linda had incomplete teams.

In girls competition, Tamalpais defeated Terra Linda, 19-38, and San Marin had an incomplete team. Kate Keyes (Tam) won the two-mile race in 11:52 followed by teammates Maggie Keyes, her sister, and Linda Broderick. Terra Linda girls, Cindy Chapman and Veronica Venezia took the next two places.

New 49er End Is Studying

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Wide receiver Danny Abramowicz is working overtime to learn the San Francisco 49ers system.

The scrappy pass catcher, obtained from New Orleans, flew into San Francisco last night, unpacked his bags and picked up his playbook. He's expected to begin workouts today with his new teammates and possibly play Sunday at Candlestick Park against Los Angeles.

Coach Dick Nolan says he needs all the weapons he can muster against the Rams because this game might have a strong bearing on the outcome of the National Football Conference West.

Right now, the Rams are 2-0 and San Francisco 1-1 following last week's 36-34 squeaker win over Denver.

"Abramowicz is in shape and has a lot of experience," said Nolan. "All he needs is indoctrination in our system."

Nolan figures he'll use Abramowicz if the Rams attempt to double team Gene Washington and tight end Ted Kwalick.

It has not yet been decided whether the game will be televised locally. Though the contest is a sellout, the city's lease contract with the 49ers specifies no local television of home games because the city is concerned with loss of revenue from concessions and parking.

City attorneys are researching the case and said, "we don't know when we'll come up with the answer. There isn't a definite precedent."

Cross Country Win

Harrison Gunther led his Marin Academy junior varisty teammates to a 20-37 cross country victory over Marin County Day School yesterday with a record run on the academy's two-mile course just off the campus. Gunther's school record time was 12 minutes and 24 seconds.

Quilici Selects A's In Playoffs

OAKLAND (UPI) — Even though his Minnesota Twins devastated Oakland this season, Manager Frank Quilici picks the A's to defeat Baltimore in the American League playoffs.

"The A's have too much pitching—both starters and relievers," said Quilici after the Twins leveled Oakland 4-1 last night for the 14th time in 18 starts this season behind the one-hit pitching of Bert Blyleven.

Blyleven, whom Quilici calls "a great one," notched his 20th victory against 16 losses. Jim Hunter, the A's starter, was the loser and dropped to 21-5.

In off-field action, former major league manager Bill Rigney was fired by owner Charles O. Finley. Rigney had been colorman on the A's broadcasts this season and had just returned from scouting the Orioles.

Roberts Praises Gomez After Win

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dave Roberts believes a four-man rotation and Coach Preston Gomez helped boost him to a season high victory mark and club shutout record with the Houston Astros this season.

Roberts jumped to a 16-11 record with a seven-hit, 5-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants last night. The triumph was his sixth shutout, breaking Larry Dierker's record of five set in 1972.

Gomez managed Roberts at San Diego before he was fired and Roberts was traded to Houston last year. Manager Leo Durocher hired Gomez this year.

"It's good to have someone in your corner who knows you," Roberts said, "someone who will go with you a little longer. I think in some situations where I would get a couple of men on Preston would say to go with me for a couple of more hitters.

"I got to pitch every four days instead of five," he said. "This helped a lot and I've kept the ball down this year."

Roberts walked only one and struck out five. The Giants' biggest threat came in the third after two out singles by Gary Matthews and Gary Maddox. Chris Spier lined to short right but Bob Gallagher raced in, grabbed the ball with one hand and tumbled head over heels for the out.

"I don't think I would get to it," he said. "But I figured I had to give it a shot."

Loser Juan Marichal struck out rookie Cliff Johnson with the bases loaded in the third but Johnson slammed a two-run homer off Marichal in the fifth.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

The Roquet Shot

By LEE TREVINO

This is when you're really going about golf in a backward manner. The roquet shot can save you when your ball stops on the edge of a bunker or any place where you can't take a normal stance and backswing.

It doesn't take an acrobat to look backwards through your legs to line up a shot. It only sounds like it.

For example, if your ball rolls over the green and stops on the lip of a sand trap or a pond, there isn't room to stand for a normal address. The bunker's too deep and the pond is too wet. What're you gonna do — holler "uncle," pick up, or fall down crying?

You're gonna take your putter, straddle the ball and hit it backwards between your legs. It'll get plenty of roll, and I don't advise using a lofted club.

Hit the ball a chopping stroke, lifting the club up straight in front of you. Take your time, because if the ball hits your foot, it's a two-stroke penalty. And that's when you fall down and cry.

Rancho Vs. Ukiah Game Is Up In Air

Rancho Cotate High School will definitely be hosting the Ukiah High School Wildcats in a non-league football game this weekend, but the only question is when and where the contest will be held.

Originally scheduled at the Cougars, home opener at their Rohnert Park campus, the time and location of the game are now in doubt because the state has not approved of the recent improvements to the school's football field.

If the field is not approved for Saturday's slated 2 p.m. kickoff, the game will be moved to Durst Field in Petaluma and either played tomorrow night or Saturday afternoon. Final plans will not be known until noon tomorrow.

In other high school football Saturday, Casa Grande of Petaluma's fledgling Gauchos meet their cross-town rivals St. Vincent for the first time in a non-league clash at Durst Field at 8 p.m., and Tomales hosts non-league foe Clear Lake at 2 p.m.

No matter where they play, the Cougars will be seeking their first victory of 1973 after their 18-game winning streak was broken last week by Petaluma. They will be facing a strong Wildcat squad that trounced Analy of Sebastopol, 34-6, last week.

"From all we've heard, they'll be one of our toughest opponents this year," said Rancho Cotate coach Claude Brock about Ukiah. "As of right now, we're not ready for them."

YMCA Class In Skier Fitness

The Young Men's Christian Association, Marin County chapter, will present a skier fitness program starting Tuesday, Oct. 2 in the Terra Linda High School cafeteria.

The one-hour course held Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 will feature skiers' exercises — primarily for the back and stomach muscles. Tumbling will also be included in the class for beginning and veteran skiers. The course will run eight weeks for participants nine years old and over. Cost is $25 for members, $30 non-members.

Registration will be taken by the YMCA at 241 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Lee Defeated By Cleveland

CLEVELAND — Boston pitcher Bill Lee could sue his Boston Red Sox mates for non support.

The Terra Linda left-hander (17-11) yesterday gave up only one run on seven hits while going the distance, but his Red Sox cohorts were blanked by Cleveland right-hander Gaylord Perry (19-19), 1-0. Lee, in his first season as a starter, struck out seven while walking two in eight innings.

His only damaging mistake came in the fourth inning when designated hitter John Ellis walloped his 14th home run of the year. It was the first pitch in the inning. Meanwhile, Lee's 1972 Cy Young award winning opponent held Boston to four singles and a double.

Follows Tradition

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Bobby Murcer clubbed four consecutive home runs in consecutive games in June, 1970, he was the fourth Yankee to turn the trick. Previous sluggers included Lou Gehrig, Johnny Blanchard and Mickey Mantle. Gehrig hit his four in one game.

Expos Keep Mauch As Manager

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Expos have had only one manager since joining the National League in 1969 and they have no plans to make a change.

The Expos expressed confidence in 46-year-old Gene Mauch yesterday, extending his contract through 1975. Mauch has 13½ years of managerial experience — some 2,132 games — and that puts him third among active managers in length of service behind Los Angeles' Walter Alston and Houston's Leo Durocher.

"He's just the guy to entrust our players to, to bring them around to championship caliber," said General Manager Jim Fanning.

Montreal has finished sixth twice and fifth twice under Mauch. This year the Expos are under .500 but are one of five clubs battling for the East Division title.

A pair of American League managers also got good news yesterday.

The Baltimore Orioles rehired Earl Weaver for another year at an estimated $70,000. Weaver has led the Birds to their fourth East Division championship in the last five years after a rocky start.

The California Angels decided to keep Bobby Winkles on for another year. Winkles, in his first year as manager, has the Angels in fourth place in the American League West.

Winkles was a coach with the club in 1972 after several years as baseball coach at Arizona State.

GRID PROSPECTS

Terra Linda — Sleeping Giant?

By LEW CODDINGTON

(Fourth in a series on the prospects of Marin prep football teams.)

Once agian, there is Terra Linda High School lying in the weeds with a 0-2 non-league football record. And once again, rivals are watching with trepidation, knowing that sooner or later, something will stir.

"If we shore up the defense, we will be a contender," says Trojan coach Don Lucas, whose teams have won or shared six of the last seven Marin County Athletic League championships, despite lowly pre-season records.

Last year was a perfect example, as Terra Linda lost all three of its non-league battles, yet went 5-1 in the MCAL, tied for the title, represented the league in the first Top of the Bay Bowl, and deadlocked Petaluma, 7-7.

Graduation has robbed the Trojans of such stalwarts as running back Pete Corbett; linemen Larry Madden, Jon Loberg, Wes Emerson and Dan Skeen; and linebackers Scott Logan and Steve Withers.

Some of the players who backed up those stars are now ready to attain stardom on their own, Lucas feels, and a couple of key starters are back, so the cause is not hopeless.

Lineman Bruce Bollen, highly visible at 6-foot-4 and 185 pounds, was all-MCAL on defense last season, and is playing offensive tackle as well this year.

Another returning starter is quarterback Kevin Kirby, whose arm was one of the factors causing Lucas to change his basic offensive set from the run-oriented Wishbone-T to the slot-I and pro-I.

Lucas expects hard running from halfback Kevin O'Keefe and fullback Cam Leith, both seniors whose skills were overshadowed last year. O'Keefe currently has an injured knee, however. The backs will see heavy duty as pass receivers also.

The offensive line appears strong with Greg Marioni (190) and Mike Hobson (160) at tight end. Kent Yamagata, Tim Larkey or Jon Kagleas will play center.

It's the defensive line, where "everybody and his cousin have played so far," that worries Lucas. Bollen is set, but the other spots are open. Linebacking looks solid with Leith and Larry Buttner holding two of the three spots. There are no complaints, either, about the secondary of Kirby, Steve Demby, Harry Bolton and Mike DeMattei, with Arman Walker (also a kick-return threat) in reserve.

O.J. Running Away With Rushing Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — O.J. Simpson could've watched last weekend's National Football League games from an easy chair and he still wouldn't have had to worry about anybody surpassing him in rushing.

Of course, he didn't. He was out there as usual with the rest of his Buffalo teammates, rushing against San Diego.

The problem was, the Chargers were ready for him. They "limited" him to 103 yards, far under his fantastic opening-game record 250. And without his thunderous running, the Bills lost 34-7.

Even without those 103 yards, though, Simpson still would lead the league's ground-gainers. He now has 353 yards and his closest challenger is Essex Johnson of Cincinnati.

Pete Beathard of Kansas City retained the AFC passing leadership.

Dick Shiner of Atlanta, the NFC leader a week ago, slipped to No. 2 behind John Hadl of Los Angeles following the Rams' 31-0 blanking of the Falcons.

In pass receiving, Bob Tucker of the Giants, with 14 for 210 yards assumed the NFC's top spot ahead of Charles Taylor of Washington as first-week leader Vic Washington of San Francisco slipped to third.

In the AFC, Mike Siani of Oakland, who led a week ago, fell completely out of the top 10, replaced at the top by J.D. Hill of Buffalo, with 10 receptions for 155 yards.

Donny Anderson of St. Louis, with six touchdowns — four rushing and two receiving — leads the league in scoring with 36 points, the Jets' Rich Sowells is the interception leader with three and rookie Ray Guy of Oakland is the NFL's No. 1 punter with a 49.3-yard average.

Gehrig's Slams

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees holds the record for the most career grand slam home runs. Gehrig hit 23.

Final Chapter In Barry Case?

OAKLAND — The messy and confused court suits involving pro basketball's celebrated gypsy Rick Barry may be finally closed. It was announced yesterday that two suits against the American Basketball Association involving Barry's 1967 jump from the then San Francisco Warriors to the now defunct ABA Oakland Oaks were thrown out of court.

Warrior owner Franklin Mieuli, who earlier had settled out of court for $1 million damages with the Oaks' owners, had sought an additional $660,000 from the league. The Oaks' owners, singer Pat Boone and Los Angeles insurance executive Ken Davidson, also sought damages from the league, claiming the ABA had agreed to share two-thirds the cost of the $1 million settlement.

But Judge Cecil Mosbacher of the Alameda County Superior Court agreed with an ABA Board of Governors decision that ruled the settlement cost was illegally constituted and its actions void.

'Coaching Crunch' In Marin

By LEW CODDINGTON

High schools in Marin are beginning to feel a "coaching crunch" which is likely to get worse in the future as the number of openings rises and the number of coaches available to fill them declines.

Already, the situation has led to a couple of unusual arrangements. Lew Sagastume is coaching soccer at Tamalpais High this fall and at St. Ignatius in San Francisco (where he teaches) in the winter. Joe Morgan coaches water polo for San Marin and wrestling and swimming for Novato, though he is a substitute teacher in the district and is assigned to neither school.

The situation is attributable to three factors, according to Tam athletic director Al Ahlsten.

One is declining enrollment, leading to a corresponding decline in the number of faculty openings. "The post-war baby boom is over," says Ahlsten, and figures confirm his statement. The Tamalpais High School district enrollment is 200 fewer than last year (out of about 6,000 pupils). In Novato, where the closing of Hamilton Air Force Base is a factor, the decline is 800 out of 10,000.

As enrollment goes down, fewer teachers are needed. This cost Tam its swimming-water polo coach, Bill Anderson, who was unable to land a permanent position and left to go into the graphic arts field. His replacement is former Tam swim star Dennis Goode, a Chico State graduate.

A second factor contributing to the crunch is the increase in the number of sports, with the addition of water polo and soccer in recent years and the current emphasis on girls' athletics.

The crunch cannot be alleviated by hiring trained coaches from outside, because according to California Interscholastic Federation rules, each coach must be an accredited teacher.

As enrollments continue to drop and demands for broader athletics programs continue to be pressed, the situation is likely to worsen.

PERSONAL TOUCH — Novato High has been victimized again this year by typographical errors on its personalized football jersies. Quarterback Les Nicolini has been renamed "Nicalini" and end Mike Leach has been transformed to "Lech," but fortunately fullback Mark Lipe is not being called "Lite," as he was last season.

You can't tell the players with a scorecard either. Leach and defensive back Mike Heilman both have been issued jersey No. 81.

Petaluma Takes Harrier Meet

NAPA — Petaluma High School scored a North Bay League double-dual cross country meet victory here yesterday with 18-45 wins over both Vallejo and Vintage high schools.

Jon Sisler and Dan Aldridge paced Petaluma, finishing one-two. Sisler broke the tape at 13:37 and Aldridge was right on his heels in 13:40.

Greg Sabourin, Phil Bond, Rich Recny, Dave Hansen and Mike Brandner took the fifth through ninth spots for Petaluma.

Petaluma 18, Vintage 45;
Petaluma 18, Vallejo 45;
Vintage 19, Vallejo 42.

Jon Sisler (P), 13:37; Dan Aldridge (P), 13:40; Mark Hadley (Vin), 13:44; Finley (Val), 14:04; Greg Sabourin (P), 14:05; Phil Bond (P), 14:35; Rich Recny (P), 14:55; Dave Hansen (P), 15:01; Mike Brandner (P), 15:07; Miller (Vin), 15:40.

Long Distance

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — During a National Football League career that spanned 1958-1966 with the San Francisco 49ers and St. Louis Cardinals, Abe Woodson ran back 193 kickoffs more than 3 miles. His total returns and yardage are both pro football records.

Moose Hurls '5 Good Innings' To Help Bucs

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Eleven months ago Bob Moose had the misfortune to literally pitch the Pittsburgh Pirates out of the 1972 National League pennant race.

Today the 25-year old right-hander has the satisfaction of delivering "five good innings" in the Pirates' hour of need and helping them move back into the 1973 race.

Moose, who wild-pitched home the run which gave the Cincinnati Reds their "sudden death" ninth-inning 4-3 victory over the Pirates in the final game of the 1972 NL championship series, came through last night as the Pirates whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 13-2.

That victory, coupled with the Montreal Expos' 8-5 triumph over the New York Mets, lifted the Pirates to within a half game of first place in the NL's Eastern Division race. The Pirates can tie the Mets for the lead by beating the Phillies tonight while the Mets are idle. Both teams would then have four games left to play.

"This is the first 'laugher' we've had," said Danny Murtaugh, referring to the period since he took over as manager on Sept. 6. "Moose gave me five good innings but I took him out because he started Monday."

Moose took over for rookie Jim McKee, making his first major league start, in the third inning and allowed one run in five innings. The Pirates promptly rallied for seven runs in the bottom of the third and, with Moose holding the fort, piled up a 13-2 lead before Bob Johnson came on to pitch the last two innings.

Los Angeles defeated Atlanta 9-8 as Hank Aaron went homerless, St. Louis beat Chicago 1-0, San Diego downed Cincinnati 5-1 and Houston topped San Francisco 5-0 in other NL games.

American League scores were Minnesota 4 Oakland 1, Kansas City 6 Chicago 2, Milwaukee 5 New York 2, Cleveland 1 Boston 0, Baltimore 4 Detroit 0 and California 5 Texas 4.

Rich Hebner drove in four runs and Gene Clines and Dal Maxvill batted in three each to lead the Pirates' 13-hit attack. Clines singled twice and drove in three runs during the Pirates' seven-run rally, Hebner hit a two-run homer and Maxvill had a three-run triple in the game. Moose's five strong innings earned him the victory and squared his record at 12-12.

The Expos kayoed Tom Seaver with five runs in two innings, were tied at 5-5, and then won the game on Bob Bailey's two-run homer off Harry Parker in the seventh. It was a brutal loss for Seaver, the highly-publicized Met ace who saw his chances of a fourth 20-victory season become almost non-existent.

Pinch-hitter Ken McMullen's double drove in the winning run for the Dodgers in an old fashioned slugfest in Atlanta. Mike Lum and Darrell Evans homered for the Braves and Steve Garvey hit a three-run homer for the Dodgers. Aaron drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a single but now has only three games left in which to tie or break Babe Ruth's career record of 714 homers this season.

Rick Wise pitched a five-hitter to raise his record to 15-12 for the Cardinals with Ted Simmons driving in the winning run on a single which extended his batting streak to 12 games; and homers by Nate Colbert, Dave Hilton, Dave Roberts and Clarence Gaston paced the Padres victory over the Reds and Dave Roberts pitched a seven-hitter against San Francisco to raise his mark to 16-11 for the Astros.

Booter Matthau Hurt As Marin Tars Tie

PLEASANT HILL — College of Marin did not lose its soccer game yesterday, but it may have suffered a greater blow when No. 2 scorer Sam Matthau sustained a broken leg.

Diablo Valley College scored with about 15 minutes left to negate an earlier goal by Marin's Misak Pirinjian and earn a 1-1 tie with the Tars (0-4-2).

FIREMEN'S TENNIS

Smith Extended By Rival Parun

ALAMO, Calif. (UPI)—Top-seeded Stan Smith battled for his life last night before ousting Onny Parun of New Zeland to vault into the quarterfinals of the $50,000 Firemen's Fund International tennis tournament.

Smith needed three sets to pull out a 7-6, 4-6, 6-4 victory.

However, seventh-seed Cliff Drysdale wasn't as fortunate as Smith. Unseeded Ray Moore upset him 6-4, 6-3 to move into the quarterfinals against Smith at the Round Hill Country Club tonight.

Smith had beaten Parun in the U.S. Open at Forest Hills earlier this year but Smith said Parun was considerably tougher to beat last night because he was returning his serve.

"I could have lost the match just as easily as I won it," said the world's top-ranked tennis player.

All of the other seeded players advanced to the quarterfinals.

Tom Gorman, the No. 3 seed, dropped the first set 3-6 to Mexico's Raul Ramirez but rallied to pull it out 7-6, 6-0 in another thrilling match. And UCLA's Jeff Austin put up a heroic struggle before falling before fourth-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3.

In other matches, No. 6 Bjorn Borg of Sweden defeated Vladimir Zednik of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 6-0, fifth-rated Roscoe Turner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., downed Jeff Borowiak, Tiburon, Calif., 6-2, 6-4, No. 2 Arthur Ashe dumped Dick Bohrnstedt, Redlands, Calif., in straight 6-4 sets and John Alexander of Australia downed Charlie Pasarell of Los Angeles, 7-6, 6-4.

Gorman meets Borg prior to the Smith-Moore match Thursday night.

Stocks Keep Gaining As Trading Is Heavy

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks marked up gains in active trading today for their seventh consecutive plus session on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said further declines in Treasury bill rates, which dropped again yesterday, and other indications of a reduction in short-term interest rates continued to spur the market. Investors were optimistic about the possibility that the Federal Reserve would ease its tight money policies.

Southern Co. was the most actively traded issue, advancing ¼ to 18 ⅛ on 356,200 shares that included one block of 300,000 shares traded at 18.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange also were higher in fairly active trading. The Circle K Corp. led the actives at 12 ¼, off ⅛ on 28,800 shares.

On the Big Board, steels, oils, aircrafts, rails, computer and electronics issues were higher, and airlines and chemicals were mixed.

Delta was ahead 2 ⅛ among the airlines, and Flying Tiger added 1 ¾, and UAL, Inc., 1. But Eastern Airlines was off 1 ⅜ in active trading on reports that it is preparing to dismiss its president and chief operating officer, Samuel L. Higginbottom, and to disclose a worsening of its near-term financial outlook.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

The New Look At Enterprise

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am presently holding 2,800 shares of Enterprise Fund. The market value of these shares has depreciated in a very much greater percentage than other mutual funds. Would you suggest selling for reinvestment elsewhere? If so, what would you recommend? — T.C.

A. Because the character of this fund has been entirely transformed by a new, more conservative management team, I would advise you to sit tight. The portfolio, as it is now structured, includes about 120 issues, down from over 700 separate holdings in Enterprise's "go-go" days. The present list of holdings is comprised in large part of good-quality blue chips. Large positions are held in American Express (OTC), Avon Products (NYSE), Bristol Myers (NYSE), Eastman Kodak (NYSE), International Business Machines (NYSE) and Union Pacific (NYSE), among others.

While Enterprise has not performed as well as some other funds, the change in net asset value has been only moderately below average for the last 19 months. In view of the more conservative investment approach now in force, Enterprise's performance record should improve.

Q. What has happened to Piper Aircraft? I have 322 shares bought in 1941 and 1960 with some received as dividends. My total investment was $4,125. — D.V.

A. Piper Aircraft, which trades on the Philadelphia-Baltimore-Washington Exchange, recently changed hands near $30, placing a current value of $9,700 on your shares. Because Bangor Punta owns a 52 per cent interest in Piper and Chris-Craft Industries holds 42.5 per cent, there are less than 100,000 shares in public hands. The latter company has been engaged in a four-year legal contest with Bangor Punta over control of the small-plane manufacturer. In March, 1973, the courts ruled that 14 per cent of Bangor Punta's shares had been acquired illegally and barred this firm from voting privileges on those shares.

Piper reported sales of $94 million in the first nine months through June 30, up 51 per cent year to year. Earnings reached $2.15 a share, compared with $0.67 in the comparable fiscal 1972 period.

Wine Prices Up

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — United Vinters Inc., a leading producer of California wines has reported a retail price increase of 10 cents a fifth-size bottle of its popularly priced wines and increases ranging from 20 to 31 cents a fifth of its widely alailable premium vintages.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Scout Hall Sold, Will Become Martin And Harris Appliances

Scout Hall at Second and A streets in San Rafael will become Martin and Harris Appliance Center as soon as the appliance firm completes renovation and moves stock from its present store at 1604 Fourth Street.

Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America will move into the former Edward P. Hageman building at 225 West End Avenue, San Rafael.

Sales of both properties were announced today by Nipper and Marchant, San Rafael realty brokers.

Harris A. Martin, owner of Martin and Harris, said the Scout Hall was purchased to give his firm needed room for expansion. Its 10,000 square feet is more than double the floor space in the leased quarters occupied on Fourth Street.

On moving into the larger quarters, Martin and Harris will add General Electric television sets to its line of appliances, Martin said. All other lines previously handled at the Fourth Street location will be continued. There will be no change in operation of the firm's Mill Valley branch, he said.

Martin and Harris plan a formal "grand opening" at the new store for Nov. 1.

The Boy Scout Council has been seeking new quarters for its offices, with use of the large meeting hall-gymnasium at Scout Hall largely abandoned. The building at 225 West End Avenue which the council will occupy was purchased from Nicholas Oddo of San Rafael, who in turn bought it from builder Hagemann.

The Boy Scout Council will occupy the entire building.

GARY B. TOPPER of Mill Valley has joined Sonoma Vineyards of Tiburon as sales manager. He formerly was national sales manager of Sebastiani Vineyards . . . JOHN M. DEL VECCHIO, a new Marin resident, has joined the Corte Madera office of Valley Realty, where he will specialize in residential property. He formerly was a real estate broker in Connecticut.

Topper Del Vecchio

DAIRY OPEN HOUSE — Guided tours of Northern California's largest creamery will feature the 60th anniversary open house of Petaluma Cooperative Creamery at Western Avenue and Baker Street, Petaluma Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

There also will be free refreshments, free coloring sheets for children, and the famous Clover cow, Clo, with her new calf. The creamery markets Clover products throughout the Bay Area.

Academic Freedom And Suppression

Would academic freedom in the public schools be increased by permitting union collective bargaining for teachers?

The American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, and National Education Association contend that it would. But some doubt is cast on the proposition by an attempt by the AFT to suppress a book that paints the union in less than glowing colors.

The little-publicized case involves "Teachers and Power: the Story of the American Federation of Teachers," by Robert J. Braun, education editor of the Newark (N.J.) Star-Ledger. It was published in June, 1972, by Simon and Schuster, a leading New York book publisher, but only some 10,000 copies have been sold. The reason for the small sale is not hard to find.

On July 28, 1972, the AFT and its president, David Selden, filed suit against Braun and the publisher for $3.5 million, charging libel.

"TEACHERS and Power" is written in the Tom Wolfe style of reporting (what an earlier generation of writers called "semi-fiction"), in which the writer invents dialogue and situation descriptions to give a spurious impression of actual on-the-spot reporting of a scene. Whether such reporting can be accurate is disputable.

However, it does not charge any crime against any of the AFT leaders who appear in its pages. It falls easily within the U.S. Supreme Court's finding in New York Times vs. Sullivan that important public issues — in this case, the unionization of teachers — are entitled to "uninhibited, robust" debate under the free press guarantee of the Constitution.

The AFT's suit, then, appears to have been entered as a "nuisance suit," aimed at suppressing the book. This was born out in a series of offers by AFT lawyers to drop the case if Simon and Schuster would guarantee no further editions of "Teachers and Power" — attempts which have been described by Nat Hentoff (an adviser to Braun in the case) in a series of articles in New York's Village Voice.

Because of the suit, Simon and Schuster has not issued any second edition. It claims it did not do so because of poor sales — although the initial 10,000 sold with little advertising or other publicity.

THE QUESTIONS that arise from this are:

Can the American Federation of Teachers legitimately cry "censorship" and "interference with academic freedom" whenever any material used by a member teacher in his classroom is questioned — and at the same time try to suppress publication of a book because it is critical of AFT?

And can this union — or any other union or quasi-union — be trusted with the freedom of information that is essential to education, if it is placed in power over the public schools?

The answer to both is obvious.

Storing For Winter

Putting away food for winter is an age-old animal instinct. Marin's squirrels and jays cache acorns. Raccoons store fat on their bodies. Meadow mice collect granaries of grass seeds.

Man, too, is heir to the autumnal storage instinct. Something in our genes tells us "put away." And there is no greater satisfaction than to know we have reserves. Even though our society rarely knows genuine hunger, there is comfort, even joy, in canning, freezing and drying a supply of food. It is an inheritance of the centuries when storage was a matter of survival. With the possibility of worldwide food shortages looming ahead, the instinct may prove once more to be a lifesaver.

Rent Subsidies For State Employees Under Scrutiny

By EARL G. WATERS

An action which may drastically curtail and eventually halt the furnishing of housing by the state to its workers has been taken by the State Board of Control. The board has ordered a sweeping review of rental policies following disclosures that more than 3,000 employees live in state-owned properties for which they pay only nominal rents.

Furnishing housing for employees is a carryover from days when work sites were geographically isolated and travel was slow. Thus homes were built for key officials at state hospitals and prisons. Housing was also provided employees of forestry, highways, fish and game, and some other agencies having operations in the hinterlands.

But the growth of California has brought about changes. Remoteness of private housing is no longer a factor except in unusual cases. And most administrators have undergone a change in philosophy. They no longer feel it desirable for employees to live in. They believe it better for them to get away from their work and mingle with the community.

HOWEVER, THOSE HOMES which were provided in the days of necessity are still being maintained. And some agencies continue to build new housing.

And, despite the fact that since about 1953 rents have been charged, the rentals have been so low that in some cases they seem absurd. This was pointed up by the revelation that State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke is being charged only $136 per month for the $350,000 state-owned Bel Air mansion he occupies.

State rentals have been based on the number of rooms and age of a dwelling, with the highest rent being $149 for a home under 10 years old with eight or more rooms. For a new five-room home the rent is $114. A slight charge is made for utilities but all maintenance is provided free.

The basis for the rents was challenged by board chairman Vern Cartwright, who asked, "What has the age of a house got to do with it?" State law, he said, requires the board to determine the fair and reasonable value of the homes.

CARTWRIGHT REBUTTED arguments that the salaries of employees should be considered and that the existence of residences were an inducement in recruiting, as in the case of physicians at state hospitals. "Low rents," he said, "which operate as compensation or recruitment incentives conflict with the concept of equal pay for equal work. The law doesn't permit us to consider salaries. That is the personnel board's job."

In answer to the objection that if the rents were set too high some employees couldn't afford to live in the homes, board member Lew Clingan said, "Then they can move out and the buildings can be used for other purposes or disposed of as excess property and put back on the tax rolls."

He said that there may be a need to establish different standards for rents where an employee is required to live in a residence: "We want to know the justification for the requirement."

'There Are No Taverns In Corte Madera'

Your "objectivity reject indicator" seems to be hanging out. First you "blessed" the citizens of Corte Madera with your editorial, which completely missed the point (also misled somewhat about the referendum process). Then you allowed Miss Ellinwood some 455 words in her anti-recall letter (the rest of the world is limited to the vicinity of 200). You took the final step out of bounds in your reporting of the election results.

Paraphrasing your reporting (trying to stay near 200 words), the members of the recall met in a "tavern" and jubilantly toasted one another with beer, while the councilmen met in a quiet setting and drank champagne and wine.

Innuendo and opinion may have license on the editorial page but your readers are entitled to some degree of objectivity in your reporting. There are no "taverns" in Corte Madera (check Ma Bell's book). The place involved was a specialty restaurant and there were as many wine glasses as beer glasses around (there were even some quiet people).

Of greater importance, however, is the fact that the "quiet setting" you refer to seems to have been the offices of a well known realtor, located in the vicinity of Madera Boulevard and Tamalpais Drive. Is it possible that reporting this may have jeopardized the sanctity of your position?

Corte Madera has a chance for a new start. How about joining us in this new spirit in the coming campaign for the December election.

Bosses Responsible, Not Public Employees

Your idea that the cost of government is far too high (partly because of the number of employees) is certainly sound. The thrust of your Sept. 22 editorial, "Public Employees Harassing Public," though, seems to be toward all public employees. This on the basis of the activities of some of the President's staff and some others.

But should not your displeasure be directed toward the heads of the government who are truly responsible for the activities of their appointed subordinates? In the case of Watergate to which you made reference, would not this be the President and not "public employees"? There were certainly many national problems crying for solution " . . . to keep the President's huge personal staff busy."

If you, your city editor and business manager, through lack of proper supervision, allowed your reporters and business office staff to engage in "all manner of evil works unrelated to the task" (of honest reporting and proper accounting), would not you be the one who was really responsible?

You really must know that there are many thousands of public employees who entered the government service with a sincere dedication to provide the country with good government. And it was the desire for good government which prompted your editorial, I know. But don't you help to defeat your purpose by spreading the implication that the actions of some public employees represents the activites of all public employees?

It has been reported that since the scandals of Watergate it is becoming increasingly difficult to find qualified persons willing to run for public office because no one wants to be associated with "dirty politics." Won't the same unfortunate result be true in the effort to attract honest, qualified members of the younger generation to government service? For who would want to be associated with public employees who, as you say, twist and torture laws and who have time "to sit around thinking up ways to increase the bite on taxpayers by stretching existing laws"?

A well-earned commendation for work well done is one of the best incentives for encouraging better performance, so why don't you and your staff be on the alert for examples of good service and performance by public employees at all levels of government? Then use your very influencial columns to give a public "well done!" and thereby help to promote dedication and pride in good performance by all public employees. You will find plenty of opportunities to hand out deserved bouquets.

How Spiro, Closeted With Dick, Rattled Respective Skeletons

WASHINGTON — Vice President Spiro Agnew met alone with President Nixon in the White House last week, and while the lid was put on their conversation, it is now coming out in bits and pieces.

"Spiro, there is something I meant to ask you five years ago when I chose you for vice president, but it slipped my mind at the time.

"Do you have any skeletons in your closet?"

"I have never been treated for mental illness, if that's what you mean."

"THAT ISN'T WHAT I mean, Spiro. I mean do you have any other skeletons in your closet? A horror that the press might grab hold of and make something out of?"

"I can't think of anything. My life is an open book."

"What about this business in Baltimore County that everyone seems to be talking about? Why didn't you tell me about that?"

"You didn't ask me."

"Yes, Spiro, I'm aware of that. But couldn't you have volunteered that information anyway?"

"Probably, but I was so excited when you called to offer me the vice presidency that it slipped my mind. Besides, it happened so long ago that I thought it didn't matter one way or another."

"EXCUSE ME, SPIRO, I have to change the tape . . . All right, let's assume I made a mistake in not checking out the skeletons in your closet. We have to face up to the fact that the skeletons are now out in the open. What should I do about it?"

"Why don't you announce that you support me 1,000 per cent?"

"I'd like to Spiro. That would be the easy thing to do, the popular thing. But a President has to do a lot of things that are unpopular and will lose him votes. Spiro, I can't support you 1,000 per cent."

"Could you support me 500 per cent?"

"I wish I could but my lawyers say that I can't afford to because the skeletons in my closet are beginning to haunt me."

"I WAS GOING to ask you in 1968, Mr. President, if you had any skeletons in your closet. I wish I had."

"Why is that?"

"With all due respect, sir, if they hadn't brought out the skeletons in your closet, they would never have brought out the skeletons in mine."

"Are you trying to say my skeletons are responsible for your skeletons coming out of the closet?"

"Well, I was Mr. Clean until all that San Clemente and Key Biscayne business broke in the newspapers."

"I'M SORRY, Spiro, I have to change the tape again . . . Let's see, where were we? Oh, yes. As I understand it, what you're saying is that I am responsible for your troubles."

"I wouldn't put it that strongly. But if it hadn't been for that stupid staff of yours, our skeletons would still be hidden in our respective closets. I must say, Mr. President, you blew it with the Watergate business and I don't see why I should be the fall guy."

"What do you advise me to do, Spiro?"

"Resign. Let me be President and then they can't lay a glove on me."

That's out of the question, Spiro, and you know it. If I resign, what will happen to me?

"Nothing. The first thing I'll do as President is give you executive clemency . . . executive clemency . . executive clemency . . . executive clemency . . . executive clemency . . ."

New U. S. 'Tilt' Brings Realism To Problems Of Middle East

On Sept. 5 President Nixon changed the tone and "tilt" of the American attitude toward the Arab-Israel issue in the Middle East. The results, although as yet far from conclusive, are interesting. There has been a lot of change in the positions of both Arab nations and Israel.

Among the Arab countries the big change is that all except Libya have openly or tacitly abandoned the fiction that they are ever likely to settle their differences with Israel on the battlefield.

Considering that Israel owns what is probably the world's most efficient and effective military machine, this is the beginning of a realistic Arab approach to their problem. After all, Israel not only dominates the military scene in the Middle East, but it is even approaching self-sufficiency in the manufacture of modern weapons.

And the Arabs have just been reminded of Israel's military prowess by an air battle off the Syrian coast. The Israelis won (score 13-1) in three minutes of actual combat. It took Billie Jean King nearly two hours to polish off Bobbie Riggs. The results were about equally decisive.

IN ISRAEL the big change is in recognition of the fact that President Nixon is no longer politically able to give Israel the preferential treatment which Israelis have enjoyed from him since February of 1972.

He abandoned pro-Israel partiality on Sept. 5 by announcing "priority" attention for a Middle East settlement and declaring that both sides are to blame for the continued non-settlement. Even-handedness was thus restored to the American approach to the Middle East.

The Israeli response to all of this is to recognize in private conversations — and even sometimes in public — that Mr. Nixon is in a new situation in which he must give more consideration to Arabs and their oil.

In terms of realism, Israeli recognition of Mr. Nixon's changed position matches the Arab recognition of the futility of another resort to war.

NONE OF THIS means any quick or easy solution. A lot of time will be needed to let changed attitudes mature. Nothing at all can be done formally until after the Israeli elections on Oct. 30. And while the American position is being adjusted from a pro-Israeli tilt toward impartiality, Israel still has plenty of leverage in Washington and on Mr. Nixon.

The leverage is most evident right now in the issue in Congress over the trade bill which would allow President Nixon to give "most-favored-nation" tariff treatment to the Soviet Union, along with American credit.

Mr. Nixon has promised the credits and the equal tariff treatment to the Russians. He cannot deliver without the consent of Israel because Israel's friends in the United States are backing the Jackson amendment to the trade bill. That amendment would tie the trade and credit for Moscow to free immigration from Russia for anyone wanting to leave.

WHAT WE ARE REALLY seeing in operation here is a three-way system of checks and balances as delicate and complex as the one the American founding fathers built into the United States Constitution.

In the present case the Arabs control the oil which can avert any serious oil crisis in the United States this winter. The Americans control the flow of funds essential to Israel's economic survival. The Israelis control the trade bill which is vital to Mr. Nixon's detente with Russia.

The truly new factor is realization among the Arabs of the amount of leverage which their oil gives them. Until now everyone was aware of the power of Israel's armed forces. Few fully appreciated the power of Arab oil.

It took sudden awareness of oil and gasoline shortages in the United States to uncover Arab leverage. And it was the gradual spreading among Arabs of the knowledge of their new leverage which rescued them from their own military inferiority complex.

After all, why threaten war where they are hopelessly outclassed when they can bargain with their oil where they are strong?

MATCHING THESE three balancing levers of power is the key to the problem of how to settle the Middle East issue. The process will be difficult and may take a long time. But there is something approaching equality of leverage among the three.

Settlement was impossible when the Arabs were in a position of bargaining inferiority. They are now in a position of bargaining equality.

The way ahead is not clear, but it is a lot clearer than at any previous time since the 1967 war.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Return Of Peron Brings Argentina No Certainty

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the sober dawn after a night of celebrating Juan D. Peron's return to the presidency of Argentina, many an Argentinian must have awakened with a chill premonition.

It would come not from the host of problems needing immediate solution.

It would come from the fact that the country's new vice president is Peron's 40-year-old third wife, Isabel.

It would come from the fact that Peron will be 78 on Oct. 8, just four days before he takes over responsibility for leading a divided nation out of its political instability and economic stagnation, and that he is visited almost daily by a heart specialist.

ISABELITA WILL BE the first woman vice president in Latin American history. It is not the break with tradition that rouses the chill.

Rather it is the fear that in trusting their future once more to the man the Argentine military ousted 18 years ago as a corrupt dictator Argentinians may have consigned themselves to a new era of even greater uncertainty and even more violence than the one they are leaving.

Peron met Isabel, a cabaret dancer, in Panama during his wanderings after his ouster from office in 1955.

Whatever the aesthetic qualities of the dance, it can offer little in the way of the practical experience needed of the politician, and yet Peron's union with Isabel and even his selection of her as his vice presidential running mate both were in the Peron pattern.

His second wife, Evita, was an actress who won the hearts of Argentina's "shirtless ones" who in turn gave Peron his political base. He once made her his running mate but in the last moment withdrew her name.

BUT ISABEL is no Evita. Her candidacy roused wide uneasiness as testified by the defacement of hundreds of posters featuring Isabelita.

Among Evita's one-time followers, her memory is held in reverence which permits no competition.

Many among Peron's own followers believed until the last moment that he had placed his wife's name on the ballot merely to prevent internal jockeying within his fragmented Justicillista party and at the last moment would name a substitute.

Her candidacy and the fear that Peron might not live to complete his four-year term has aroused the anxiety not only of the anti-Peronists but also of youthful leftwing Peronistas and especially of the army. The army permitted Peron's return only in a desperate, last ditch hope that he would place national unity above political partisanship.

PERON HIMSELF has disclosed that a recent virus ailment affected his heart and that doctors have told him he must avoid excitement.

Excitement may be as difficult to avoid as any attempt to conserve his energies.

Extremists of the Marxist left, responsible for scores of kidnapings in the last year, are seeking to win to their side the leftwing Peronist youth who are openly hostile to the unions providing Peron with his main strength.

The business community has been affected by Peron's known anti-Americanism, by uncertainty concerning the future of foreign investment and by fears for the safety of its members. Many have left the country.

Petitions for incorporation of a City of Tiburon, bearing some 700 signatures, were filed with Marin County Clerk George H. Gnoss.

Air Force Reservists Add Impetus To Diasater Preparedness

Uncle Sam has assigned four Air Force reserve officers to part-time duty helping Marin County officials prepare plans for disaster action. A fifth reservist's assignment is pending, according to Frank E. Kirby, county cooridnator of emergency services.

The new mobilizaiton designee program (given the usual bureaucratic treatment with the acronym MOBDES) contradicts the old idea that military brass always assign college professors to peeling potatos and lowly office boys to high-powered command posts.

The new MOBDES men hold some responsible civilian jobs, too.

DAVID G. GREENLEE III of San Anselmo is executive director of the Marin Builders Exchange. He's an Air Force major, trained as a navigator — but his old reserve squadron flies new planes now and needs fewer navigators. "So they fired all the majors," Greenlee said. "I'd still rather be flying," but the disaster planning chore earns him promotion and retirement credits. The Air Force and federal emergency setup pay his military wages and send him to special schools; the county pays him nothing.

Greenlee has been busy making sure the county has up-to-date contracts to use private contractors' equipment if there is a repeat of last winter's storm damage, an earthquake or the like.

Stephen J. Cooper of San Rafael is an engineering professor at San Francisco City College, and an Air Force captain in engineering.

Erich M. Voester of San Rafael is chief maintenance engineer at Marin General Hospital and a major, formerly an air base operations officer. He's checking the status of all federal surplus equipment turned over to local agencies for disaster use, and helping obtain new vehicles, a prepackaged emergency field hospital and the like.

John X. Loughran III of Mill Valley is a commercial airline senior pilot who also is studying for a doctorate in physiology at the University of California Medical Center. As an Air Force major, he usually spent his week-end warrior stints flying large jet transports to and from Asia.

Richard L. Engle of Iverness also has applied for MOBDES duty in Marin, since going on inactive duty as a captain in the "Prime Beef" emergency engineering team at Travis Air Force Base. The team was ready to fly anywhere in the world within 24 hours to help rebuild after a disaster. Engle is an engineer for the Point Reyes National Seashore, and hopes to coordinate disaster operations for West Marin, if needed.

THE RESERVISTS can sit in for Kirby when he's out of the county, and in case of emergency, would report to his office. Until that day comes, they're working 16 hours a month completing county and city disaster plans, helping with training exercises, and lining up the equipment and manpower that might be needed in any type of disaster.

Loughran and Voester, for example, spent almost an entire day last week checking all the many boxes in which the county's field hospital is stored, throwing out outdated medical supplies and getting them replaced with new materials.

The MOBDES men also will have key roles in the county's next disaster training drill Dec. 13.

Hub Bicyclists Facing Checks On Vehicle Code

A crackdown on bicyclists who violate the vehicle code has been announced by the San Anselmo Police Department.

The enforcement procedure will involve use of the standard traffic citation form, which will be sent to the traffic courts or to the parents of a juvenile violator, according to Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani.

Riders over 18 years of age will be issued a notice to appear in municipal traffic court for a violation, he said.

Riders over 15 but under 18 years of age will be issued a notice to appear in juvenile traffic court for a violation, or will be issued a written warning which will also be sent to parents, he said.

Parents of riders under 15 years of age will be issued a written warning. Juveniles who receive more than three warnings in a year will be cited to juvenile court, he said.

Berrigan's Wife Given $100 Fine

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (UPI) — A case of shoplifting involving Elizabeth McAlister, wife of Father Phillip Berrigan, was "just one of those spur of the moment things I shouldn't have done but did," the nun said.

McAlister and Sister Judith Lafemina were arrested Aug. 27 for taking an electric drill, picture hangers and sandpaper from a local Sears Roebuck store. Yesterday, Judge George Taylor sentenced each woman to a 10-day suspended jail term and a fine of $100.

Both defendants were also placed on a year's probation.

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) —A U.S. Air Force Phanton jet crashed and exploded in flames at Capodichino military airport today, killing its two American pilots, authorities said.

Kissinger's Date For Waldheim Party

NEW YORK (UPI) —Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger escorted Nancy Maginnes, a frequent companion when he is in New York, to a dinner given last night for the big five powers by U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim.

The party broke up shortly before 11 p.m., and as Kissinger left with Miss Maginnes, en route to a plane waiting to return him to Washington, he said, "There is no news. It was just a social occasion, warm and friendly."

Sextuplets Said In Good Condition

DENVER (UPI) —The conditions of the five surviving Stanek sextuplets improved today.

"The babies are doing splendidly," University of Colorado Medical Center spokesman Barbara Springer said. "They are all out of the respirators now, and the doctors are optimistic."

Bay's Garment Industry Given Poor Labor Marks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A week-long state investigation of work practices in the Bay Area garment industry, focusing on San Francisco's Chinatown, turned up 601 labor law violations, it was reported yesterday.

The Department of Industrial Relations said that of 92 firms inspected in San Francisco and Oakland, only one was found free of violations.

A similar inspection last month in Los Angeles turned up 536 violations of wages, hours and working conditions in 71 shops.

Evelyn Whitlow, chief of the Division of Industrial Welfare, said that among the violations were 18 involving failure to pay minimum wages, 26 involving failure to pay overtime, and 151 incidents of failure to keep proper records.

She said minimum wages as low as $1 an hour were paid on piece rates although the legal wage is $1.65. In addition, she said, 45 shops lacked washing facilities, 26 had no couches or unsatisfactory ones, and 28 had no first aid facilities as required by law. Miss Whitlow said the department was attempting to get voluntary compliance from the employers, mostly in Chinatown.

She said criminal prosecutions were possible.

Violations of the state Labor Code and labor regulations are misdemeanors, bearing a maximum penalty of $500 fine or six months in prison for each violation.

The Jewish Calendar

In the Jewish calendar, today is the first day of the month called Tishri, which begins the New Year. It is celebrated as Rosh Hashanah, the first of ten High Holy Days that conclude with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. The New Year is usually celebrated on Tishri 1, but the celebration may sometimes be delayed a day or two for religious reasons. Today's Jewish calendar is both solar and lunar, with the years reckoned by the sun and the months by the moon. This leads to years of different lengths. Ordinary years have 353, 354, or 355 days; leap years have 383, 384, or 385 days.

DO YOU KNOW — From what starting point is the Jewish calendar said to date?

Seminar Aimed At Burglaries

A security seminar aimed at curbing residential and commercial burglaries will be held at the Fairfax Women's Club at 7 p.m. Monday, Police Chief Charles A. Grasso announced yesterday.

A representative of the Schlage Lock Co. of San Francisco will lecture on security devices, Grasso said.

Members of the Fairfax police department will also advise residents and businessmen on methods of securing shops and homes, he said.

The two-hour program will mark the beginning of a city-wide crackdown on burglary, according to the chief.

Policemen will be available to explain burglary prevention at neighborhood coffees and David Klemme, a county community services officer, will teach crime prevention door-to-door, according to Grasso.

Grasso noted that an "operation identification" etching device is available at the department for residents who want to inscribe their possessions.

Sentence Delayed For Addict Report

The question of whether convicted burglar Richard Anthony Weaver, 20, is a drug addict has delayed his sentencing in Marin Superior Court.

Judge David Menary Jr. Monday ordered two physicians to examine Weaver, of Oakland, and report to the court Oct. 9.

On Aug. 31, Weaver was convicted by a superior court jury of assisting in the burglary of $20,000 worth of property from the Los Ranchitos home of William Ambrose June 21.

But the panel was unable to decide if John Robert Prater, 35, of Oakland, was likewise guilty, and a retrial is slated for the week of Oct. 29.

Weaver's probation report quotes a sister as saying he was a heroin addict with a habit costing from $75 to $100 a day when arrested by Marin authorities.

She also said her brother stole from his parents to buy drugs, the report says.

Weaver's probation officer said the youth "appears to have developed burglary as a way of life to provide his food and shelter and to purchase heroin."

Demos Set Machinery To Fight Reagan Tax Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California Democratic Party will kick off its statewide campaign against Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax initiative at a meeting in Fresno this weekend, party chairman John L. Burton announced yesterday.

"We will mobilize every resource of the Democratic Party to bring the facts about this tax shift scheme to the attention of California voters," declared Burton, a San Francisco assemblyman.

Democrats planning to join in the campaign against Proposition 1 at the weekend meeting, Burton said, include four 1974 gubernatorial contenders — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, Sen. George Moscone and Rep. Waldie.

"Our task is to demonstrate to Californians the horrendous impact this proposition will have not only on essential services by state government but on taxes they pay as many of these functions are shifted to cities and counties," Burton said.

"The campaign is made partisan by Ronald Reagan's abuse of California's initiative process and his willingness to spend $20 million in public funds for a special election specifically calculated to spur his presidential campaign," the Democratic party leader said.

The state party's executive committee will also receive at the Sept. 28-30 meeting a report on the financial success of the recent Democratic national telethon.

In addition, the committee will conduct a hearing on reform of delegate selection for the 1976 Democratic national convention and possible changes in the party's state central committee.
